Emergency Response Team Called in Standoff

On Friday, January 5, 2018, at 11:00 p.m. the Barron County Sheriff's Department received a call from a female at the Anderson Trailer Court in Rice Lake, who advised that she was barricaded in her house and her boyfriend had a gun and was threatening to kill her.

Darin Jenkins

Deputies from the Barron County Sheriff's Department, along with the Rice Lake Police Department, responded to the address. At one point during this call a possible gunshot was reported to have gone off by the suspect, but it does not appear any shots were fired.

The female was able to get out of the trailer and the male subject remained inside. The Barron County Emergency Response team was called, with the assistance of the Rice Lake Bus Company the trailer court was evacuated.

Once evacuated the Barron County Emergency Response Team Bearcat (armored vehicle) approached the trailer and attempted to get Darin Jenkins, 46, to come out. Those attempts were exhausted with no response. At about 3:30 a.m. the Emergency Response Team made entry in the house and took him into custody without incident.

Jenkins is currently being held in the Barron County Jail on charges of disorderly conduct, domestic abuse and bail jumping. All law enforcement personnel went home, cold but safe, with temperatures -20 below during this incident.

Special thanks goes out to the Rice Lake Police Department, the Rice Lake Bus Company, along with all the residents in the trailer court for their assistance and cooperation with this incident.

Missing Person Found Deceased

On January 3, 2018, the Barron County Sheriff's Department Investigators were following up on a missing person case from December 27, 2017, and rechecking the area Joseph Moen was possibly last seen, when they discovered a body in the woods outside of Chetek.

The body has been identified as Joseph Moen, 49, of Chetek. Initial cause of death appears to be hypothermia, but an autopsy is being conducted by the Barron County Medical Examiner's office. No foul play is suspected at this time.

Influenza Activity High in the Area

Influenza and influenza like illness levels are high in Northwestern Wisconsin and Barron County. Public Health works with medical providers, labs, and schools to monitor the number of people reporting influenza like illness and positive tests. All of Western and Northern Wisconsin are now seeing high numbers of influenza like illness and positive tests.

"We understand it can be difficult to stay home when sick," states Laura Sauve, Health Officer, "but this is the best way to stop the spread of illness. Protect your family, friends and coworkers; stay home if you are having symptoms of influenza."

Symptoms of influenza include: fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, body aches, headache, chills, tiredness and sometimes children will also have vomiting and diarrhea.

Your help is needed to stop the spread of this illness. It is important to:

- Stay home if they or you are sick. Those with symptoms of influenza should stay home for at least 24 hours after their fever has ended. The fever should be gone without using fever reducing medicine.
- Sneeze or cough into a tissue or your sleeve.

• Wash hands a lot with soap and water for as long as it takes to sing the ABC song. If you cannot wash your hands use an alcohol based hand rub.

• Try not to touch your eyes, mouth, or nose. Germs spread this way.

• Stay away from people who are sick.

• Get vaccinated for influenza. Public Health, your medical provider, and many pharmacies still have vaccine. It's not too late to vaccinate!

• Some people are at a high risk for serious flu related complications. Children younger than 5 years old and anyone with chronic health conditions (such as asthma, diabetes, and disorders of the brain or nervous system) are at more risk for serious complications. They may need to take antiviral medicine. If you are at high risk, contact your doctor right away when symptoms start to see if you need this medicine.

More information can be found at www.cdc.gov/flu or <https://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/influenza/index.htm> or by contacting your medical provider or public health at 715-537-5691, ext. 6442.

Your cooperation is needed to help stop the spread of influenza and keep our communities healthy.

Northwoods Notebook: Two young leaders of improvement at DCA by Larry Werner

In a low-slung building down past the high school, near the dental clinic, about 70 folks dressed in blue and white smocks make circuit boards for everything from electronic scales to medical devices. Here, in this rural community that celebrates its agricultural heritage each August with a root-vegetable festival, a high-tech company called DCA Manufacturing is growing by 10 percent a year.

And two young people at DCA are leading an effort to improve efficiency and quality through a program they created called EQUIP, which stands for "Employees Quantifying, Understanding and Improving Processes." They have attended five workshops at the University of Wisconsin-Madison to learn about an industrial philosophy called "Lean Six Sigma," which is about reducing variations and waste in manufacturing.

EQUIP is DCA's version of Lean Six Sigma, which its proponents claim increases an organization's revenue by streamlining processes.

"Simply put, Lean Six Sigma increases revenue by enabling your organization to do more with less - sell, manufacture and provide more products or services using less resources," according to a Six Sigma study sheet.

And speaking of study sheets, Christy King, DCA's quality engineer, and Matt Melichar, the company's maintenance and facilities manager, were sent by owner Jim Beard to five workshops at UW-Madison to learn about the Six Sigma process-improvement method. King, 25, joined DCA about 2 1/2 years ago following her graduation from North Dakota State University in electrical engineering. Melichar, 37, has been at DCA about 3 1/2 years after spending about six years working for a Milwaukee company that makes helicopters and at other companies, including Ardisam.

King was recruited from college by DCA, and Melichar came back to his hometown with his wife, also a Cumberland High Graduate, and found work at DCA.

These two young professionals are passionate about making a good company better. Their first project had to do with making sure each work station has the tools needed and that the tools were cut into foam pads so they can be organized and found when needed.

So how does organizing tools in foam make DCA better?

"Previously, an assembler might have a work space that was a table and some tool boxes, and they would spend a lot of time looking for the tools or going to a different space because they lost their tools," Melichar

Barronett Resident Graduates from University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Education

Tor Ole Odden of Barronett, graduated with a Ph.D. in science education from the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Education in a commencement ceremony held on December 17th, 2017. His research focused on how physics students make sense of abstract or tricky physics concepts, and how teachers can help them in that process.

While at UW Madison, Odden taught college physics as a teaching assistant for six semesters, earning a 2016 campus-wide exceptional service award for teaching assistants, and spent several semesters helping the UW physics department to improve their teaching. Outside of his coursework he was active in both a chemistry demonstration group and the UW Eagle Claw kung fu club.

Odden has accepted a postdoctoral research position at the University of Oslo in Oslo, Norway, for the spring. There, he will be studying how to use computer programming and simulations to improve physics teaching and learning. He will be moving to Oslo with his wife, Jacki Odden, in March.

A 2011 graduate of St. Olaf College in Northfield, MN, Odden is the son of Phillip Odden and Else Bigton of Barronett. He would like to thank the Cumberland School District and its many excellent teachers for inspiring him to study education, especially Vicki Wiita, Mike Clay, John Garibaldi, and Peggy Krueger.

Suspect arrested in Rusk County Meth investigation

On December 30, 2017 members of the Rusk County Sheriff's Office were conducting an ongoing narcotics investigation involving the possession and distribution of methamphetamine by James W. Unser (59 years old) of Glen Flora.

Subsequently, a traffic stop was completed on Unser's vehicle as it returned into Rusk County. The Rusk County K-9 was deployed which provided a positive indication for the presence of narcotics. A search of the vehicle was completed where 120 grams of methamphetamine and a large amount of US Currency was located and seized for evidentiary purposes. Unser was subsequently arrested for possession with intent to distribute methamphetamine, possession of drug paraphernalia and three counts of felony bail jumping. Unser currently has three open felony cases from Taylor, Rusk and Dunn Counties, two of which are methamphetamine related.

Northwoods Notebook...

said. "We went through and organized the tools spaces, cut the tools into foam to make sure they're always there so those tools don't go outside that area. Also we also do a monthly audit. It's a methodology about how you're going to lay out and organize your area."

"As you grow from a smaller company to a larger company you do need to shift your mindset," King said. "When you get bigger you have to have a standardized way of doing things."

While they received yellow-and-green-belt certifications in Six Sigma, the fact that their company sent them for training says more about DCA than about them, they said.

"I don't know you're going to find a lot of companies in this area that are willing to give the resources required to go down this path to become a world-class company," Melichar said.

But the company wants to be world class, he said, and a commitment to continuous improvement can help DCA achieve that goal.

"If we give you a better process and better tools we can all do better," King said.

The next Lean project has to do with the company's "supply chain" - from where and how it gets the parts needed for making circuit boards.

They said change isn't easy, but employees are buying into the "culture change," they said.

DCA was started in an old cheese plant downtown by Dennis C. Aney after he left another electronics company. The current owner, Beard, was plant manager before buying DCA a year ago and before that worked for a company in the Twin Cities that made circuit boards.

The company moved to the city's industrial park in 2001 and has expanded its facilities a few times. While D, C and A were the initials of the original owner, they now stand for Dedicated Circuit Assembly. Virtually all electronic devices need circuit boards, and the Cumberland company makes those boards for all types of companies that need them.

The largest customer is Rice Lake Weighing Systems, which makes electronic scales. DCA has many other client companies throughout the Midwest and in the Twin Cities. King said it's growing at about 10 percent a year.

It's a good place to work, these two partners in quality said.

"It's a close-knit group," King said of the DCA workforce. "It's the kind of place where you get to choose what you want to work on."

Melichar said he's worked in heavy manufacturing and in construction. He said DCA is a better, cleaner, warmer place to work.

"It's the place you want to be if you can't be at home," he said.

It doesn't get much better than that.

By Craig Bucher

Sharon was watching one of the news programs last week when I heard her exclaim, "Oh, I am so ashamed." I asked her what was bothering her and she said she was ashamed of the lack of help being given to the victims of the hurricane who live in Puerto Rico. "Just think," she said, "two months after the storm and 50% of the people still don't have electricity." She is right. I have not heard similar horror stories about the people who live in Texas or Florida, two states also struck by horrible storms. The citizens of Texas and Florida aren't without electricity or clean water. Aid was quick to come and it appears are to have been effective. The people of Puerto Rico are also Americans and deserve our best effort, not a half-hearted attempt to rebuild the island. I blame not only the politicians, but also the national press that seems to have packed up the lights and the cameras and moved on to more "juicy" stories about the ineptitude of President Trump. Trump is an easy and fun target, but the people of Puerto Rico are suffering because of lack of clean water and electricity. Without electricity there can be no rebuilding of the economy and without clean water there are tremendous health consequences. Finally, some two months after the disaster, I read that all hospitals, on the island, are not fully operational. How can we allow this to happen. It should make us all, as Americans, ashamed. We are not a "banana" republic. We have the means to solve this problem - all we need is the will.

SEE YOU NEXT WEEK!

An elderly man said to his doctor - "I think I am getting senile. Several times lately I have forgotten to zip up. "That is not senility," replied the doctor. "Senility is when you forget to zip down."

Thanks, Cumberland!

To the Editor:

I so love driving down our Main Street during the Christmas season of the year- the lights, the greenery, the vibrant shops all cozy and done up for the Holidays. It was, yet again, another reminder of the fantastic community in which we live.

From all of the incredible community contributions-- Rutabaga Fest activities, fun downtown decorations throughout the seasons, ETC's many wonderful offerings, stellar schools, the 4th of July Spectacular, and all of the on-going downtown improvements and plans, etc -- it is obvious that 'community pride' lives here!

It was memories of such things that helped us decide to move back after years away, but the reality has been even better, and it only looks to keep improving.

So, I just needed to say "Thanks, Cumberland!" This is a very special place to live, and we're proud to be part of it - past, present and future.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Olson Hyatt

After 15 years, business plan contest still helping young companies compete

MADISON, Wis. – The first Wisconsin Governor's Business Plan Contest in 2004 ended in a tie ... a statistical, down to the hundredths-place tie.

The judges scratched their heads and declared co-winners, a verdict vindicated by time as the deadline for entering the 15th annual contest nears.

One co-winner of the inaugural contest, BioSystem Development of Madison, was acquired in 2011 by Agilent. Founder Scott Fulton is now working on another young lab-tech company, Cellara LLC.

The other co-winner, Novascan LLC of Milwaukee, began with a device to detect cancer electrically and pivoted by building a device to help perform Mohs surgery for skin cancer. A clinical trial will take place this year and investors are optimistic.

The honor roll of companies (current or acquired) that gained traction through the Governor's Business Plan Contest didn't stop with that unlikely tie. Over time, more than 3,500 plans from more than 300 Wisconsin communities have been entered in the contest.

Finalists have included companies such as RevolutionEHR, Vector Surgical, Nerites, Elucent Medical, Fishidy, Lynx Biosciences, Hyde, bluDiagnostics, Strategic Fishing Systems, Optametra, Platypus Technologies, Reza Band, RoWheels, MobCraft Beer, Sector67 and BadgerBites.

Known today as Eat Street, the founders of BadgerBites recently crashed the Forbes "30 under 30" list.

Some lunar-sized craters were left by promising finalists, too, but that's not unusual in the world of emerging companies. A more striking fact is that past BPC finalists have enjoyed a high survival rate, especially compared to the U.S. startup mortality rate overall. Collectively, past contestants have raised at least $200 million in angel and venture capital and venture debt – all while creating jobs and economic value in Wisconsin.

As the 15th version of the contest heads toward a Jan. 31 deadline at www.govsbizplancontest.com, it's time for another edition of entrants to make their bids for success.

The contest links up-and-coming entrepreneurs with a statewide network of community resources, expert advice and mentoring, management talent and possible sources of capital.

Two workshops are scheduled for people who would like to learn more about entering:

- Noon Jan. 11 at the Tech Council Innovation Network meeting at the UW-Milwaukee Accelerator in Wauwatosa.
- 6 p.m. Jan. 17 at the Industrious co-working space, 25 W. Main St., Madison.

Contest categories are Advanced Manufacturing, Business Services, Information Technology and Life Sciences. For their initial entries, contestants will submit a 250-word (about 2,000 characters) idea abstract that will be reviewed by members of an 85-person judging panel.

Wisconsin residents 18 years old and older are eligible, as are teams from state-based businesses and organizations. Businesses or teams from outside the state are also eligible if they demonstrate intent to base their business in Wisconsin. Entrepreneurs may also enter multiple ideas; companies or individuals that have raised less than $25,000 in private equity for their plans in a current form may enter.

A dozen top contestants will present at the Wisconsin Entrepreneurs' Conference in June.

It's free to enter and the contest is conducted in stages, which means people can walk before they run. A March 1 seminar for the semi-finalists will be held in Waukesha to provide help with taking a business plan to the next stage.

What about those entrepreneurs who believe they don't really need a business plan to get started? After all, they argue, building a "Minimum Viable Product" may test the market as well as anything. That's true, but even experts who like lean startups find merit in writing a plan. Business plans help startups and even older businesses make their mistakes on paper versus real life. Plans help to set goals and serve as a platform for action, even if such plans change before the ink is dry.

For a growing list of emerging companies in Wisconsin, it all started with an idea and a plan. Take your idea from cocktail-napkin notes to reality. Resolve to start your new year by entering the Wisconsin Governor's Business Plan Contest.

Cold weather continued to haunt this area until a break this week. The respite, however, seemed hardly worthwhile as strong winds accompanied the mild spell and made it seem as cold as ever.

The criminal complaint states, that on Friday, December 15, 2017, at approximately 5:30 p.m. Cumberland Police Officer Chafer was dispatched to a 911 call from a subject who advised he was just sideswiped on Highway 48 West, and the vehicle that hit him did not stop. Dispatch advised Officer Chafer that the subject was following the vehicle, and he provided the license plate number for the vehicle that had hit him. Dispatch advised him that the vehicle that had struck the subject was just north of 3M. Officer Chafer made contact with the subject, who advised the vehicle hit him on Highway 48, just past Marshfield Clinic. Officer Chafer observed the damage to the vehicle and the subject advised him that the male driver had just entered a residence.

Officer Chafer made contact with Calder, who said the car parked in the driveway belonged to another subject and denied he had driven the car that night. He advised there was no one else in the residence. Officer Chafer advised him that the subject saw the driver of the vehicle that hit him enter the residence and Calder advised he had been home all night. When asked by Officer Chafer who had just come into the house, Calder stated no one did. Officer Chafer asked permission to search the house to see who else was there, and Calder gave him permission to do so. He did not find anyone else in the residence. Officer Chafer could smell the odor of intoxicants coming from Calder, and he asked him how much he had to drink. Calder said he had two tequilas. When asked if he had anything to drink since he got home, he said, no but that it didn't matter since he was not driving.

Officer Chafer made contact with the subject whose car was struck, and he told Officer Chafer that the person who struck him had long hair and was wearing a hoodie. He also stated he could identify the driver.

Officer Chafer returned to make contact with Calder, and asked him what he was wearing for a coat and if it had a hoodie. Calder pointed to a brown flannel shirt with a hoodie on it. Officer Chafer asked him to step outside, and Calder said no. Officer Chafer advised him that he was going to ask him to perform some field sobriety tests. Calder asked why, because he was not driving. Calder stepped outside the residence, and Officer Chafer shined his spotlight on him, and then made contact with the driver of the car that had been struck. The subject identified Calder as the person who had been driving.

Officer Chafer advised Calder that he had been identified as the driver, and Calder started flipping off the subject and swearing at him. Officer Chafer asked him to perform a field sobriety test and Calder stated yelling and swearing again. Officer Chafer eventually got him to calm down and he admitted that he was the driver of the vehicle, and he did not stop because he did not have a license. Officer Chafer administered a preliminary breath test and he blew a .160%, when the test was administered at the Barron County Jail, he blew a .14%.

If convicted Calder may be fined not more than $13,600 or imprisoned for not more than one year and four months, or both. He is scheduled to appear March 14, 2018

Teen Dating Violence: "A Wisconsin Public Health Crisis"

by Tim Morrissey, WI News Connection

Reliable estimates are that a third of teens in the U.S. will be subjected to physical, emotional or sexual abuse from a dating partner before leaving high school.

Wisconsin is not immune, according to a bipartisan group of lawmakers sponsoring legislation to address the problem.

The lawmakers' bill would require every school district in Wisconsin to develop a curriculum to educate students in grades seven through 12 about dating violence.

Chase Tarrier, public policy coordinator for End Domestic Abuse Wisconsin, says the issue of teen dating violence is a public health crisis in Wisconsin.

"This is not just something that happens occasionally here and there or in certain communities and not others," he points out. "This is a widespread, rampant violence that our students are experiencing in this state, and it's important that we take a very robust and widespread approach to dealing with this issue."

The bill requires local school boards to develop and adopt policies prohibiting teen dating violence at schools and school events. Schools would have to have

Boys Basketball Defeats Spooner and Amery; At Barron Friday

The Cumberland Beavers raised their overall record to 6 and 4, 3 and 2 in the HON Conference with a 57-41 victory over the Spooner Rails in Spooner last Thursday night and a win over Amery on Monday night. The team continued their season with a game on Tuesday this week, before traveling to Barron this Friday at 7:15 pm.

Kobe Berghammer had an outstanding game for the Beavers with 19 points, 17 rebounds, and five assists. He had strong efforts from his teammates as the Beavers received nine points from Riley Bodsberg, eight from Jack Martens, and seven from Noah Schradle. Martens added six rebounds, while Schradle's strong effort added four assists and five rebounds.

"We had contributions from everyone who stepped on the court. That and the facts that our two communities rallied together to help the O'Connell family, made it a great night," said Coach Corey Berghammer.

The teams next game after Friday is a contest in Bloomer on Friday, January 19.

Kobe Berghammer goes up for 2 in the boys win over Amery Monday night in Cumberland

Wrestlers Defeat Bloomer/Colfax in HON Dual

Taking victories for the Beavers by pin were Adam Nyhus (170), Reid Olson (138), and Benett Schram-ski (132). Jonathon Torres added a 16-8 major decision wrestling at 145 pounds. It was a nice win for the Beavers raising their overall HON record to 2 and 1.

The team has a big dual against Ladysmith this Thursday at Ladysmith and then returns their this Saturday for the Ladysmith Invitational. Wrestling Saturday starts at 9:30 am.

Four Cumberland Wrestlers Participate in Tournament

Four Cumberland wrestlers traveled to Eau Claire to participate in a Varsity Reserve Tournament last Saturday, January 7.

Of the four, Jonathon Torres placed the highest with a second place finish. He won three matches before losing to Coby Ekholm of Ellsworth in the Championship match.

Devin Roff placed fourth, Braxdyn Engstrand placed sixth, while Bryce Baldwin did not place for Cumberland.

Girls Basketball Team Loses Twice; Home Thursday Against Blackhawks

The Cumberland Girls Basketball Team lost a pair of games last week dropping a 60-22 decision at Unity and a 54-22 game against Barron. The team now prepares for another tough HON foe, when Bloomer comes to Elmer Beran Gymnasium this Thursday for a 7:15 pm start.

At Unity, a Cumberland team recovering from a variety of health issues dropped the contest to the Eagles.

Adreanna Johnson led the team with eight points, while Izzy West added six.

Both girls were four for four from the free throw stripe.

Friday against Barron, the team could not get the ball to drop through the hoop, shooting 24 percent from the floor. Hannah Delzer led Cumberland with six points and three boards, while Maddy Pease added three points and four rebounds.

"Even though it was a tough week, the ladies are eager to work and continue to improve. We are doing some good things that hopefully will show on the court as the second half of the conference season begins," said Coach Corey Chilson.

An Outdoorsman's Journal

by Mark Walters

A Good Year in the Outdoors

Hello friends,

Ever since 1989 I have written my annual year in review column, which basically lets me stay home for the holidays. This year I will write about some of my top outdoor experiences that I had with my 16-year-old daughter Selina Walters.

Space is always an issue when writing, so I will jump all the way to April and hunting turkey with Selina. Selina had harvested five toms coming into this years hunt. The last three years her week to hunt has been prom week and though she is always exhausted, she hunts hard.

The first four days of the season we did not see a bird. On Sunday, after a full night of Prom events I decided to let her sleep in, and we did not hit the woods until noon. A half hour after getting into our blind in an oak forest, tom number six came within range, and Selina did not miss.

Every year for the last 17, I have gone to Birch Point Resort on Marsh Miller Flowage near Bloomer on a bluegill fishing trip. I love both the resort and the flowage, and so have all four kids that I helped raise. These days Selina is my partner on this trip as she has been for the last 15, and she generally brings a friend. We are very good at catching sumo bluegill and perhaps the neatest part of this adventure is that Selina has become very good friends with Reese Frase and Brett Kostka.

Reese and Brett are Selina's age and live in the Osseo area and Reese's family has a permanent campsite at Birch Point. Reese and Brett fish with us, hang out in the cabin and are a lot of fun.

Canada/Shultz Lake is where if you cannot have fun, you are not fun! Selina has been my fishing partner on this annual trip for a long time, and has been going on Canadian fly in fishing trips since she was six months old.

We do this trip with family and longtime friends, and our group of eight is really into our annual longest northern, as well as walleye for the week bet. Selina and I have become pretty good at catching big fish and last year she won the walleye contest and I took first (much to the joy of the rest of the gang) in the gator bet.

No matter what the weather throws at us and you see some harsh storms during seven days in the Canadian bush, Selina never seems to worry or show any sign of wanting to head back to the cabin until day becomes night.

I think one of the most real tests of a young outdoorsman or woman, is the three month job of bear baiting and hunting. Bear baiting kicks my behind financially, physically, and shows what doesn't get done on the home front.

This would be Selina's 3rd bear season, I passed my tag to her when she was ten. Selina received a tag when she was 14, and did not see a bear after spending 16 nights in the stand. I knew this year I had to get the tag filled, as once she hits college she is gone as far as bear hunting goes.

On the second night of her hunt (Saturday) I heard the sweet sound of her 30:06 being fired twice as I sat in a stand a good mile away. Within seconds I got the best phone call of my life when she told me she got one.

Selina has heard a million stories of bear, deer, elk and moose that vanished never to be found because the shooter put a bullet into it and even though it was still running was confident it would die and be found.

Her first bullet went into the shoulder and the bear started running, Selina remained calm and put another bullet in the same spot. Now we have bear meat, a rug in the future, and one heck of a big monkey off our backs.

Deer camp, or should I say The Red Brush Gang! Selina is a permanent fixture at 16, she can stay up late into the night where she watches the very interesting festivities, and she can still get up in the morning. Back in 2016 she had a very bad knee injury and had to be hauled around in a deer cart. Though she will probably never run like a gazelle, her knee is healed, and she straps on her hip boots like the rest of us.

Mark and Selina Walters with a big gator that Mark caught last summer on Schultz Lake.

Selina put in a lot of hours for this black bear.

I think one of the most important parts of raising an infant to become an outdoors person is to make it fun, never force them to go. The most significant, is to teach him or her the simple fact that if you do not catch a fish, drop a duck, or shoot a deer it still was a good day!

Barronett News

By Judy Pieper

The Annual meeting of the members of Barronett Lutheran Church will be held this Sunday, January 14th, immediately after the worship service. There will be a potluck dinner after the meeting. There will be some important decisions made about the church at the meeting and we hope that all members will be there to give their opinions and vote on the issues. And, of course, we hope you will stay for dinner and fellowship afterwards.

Bob and Peg Thompson and family have a very unusual, and imaginative, way of celebrating Christmas. Every year during the second week of deer hunting season the family gets together to decide how they will celebrate. One family member steps in front of a world globe and is blindfolded. Someone spins the globe and the blindfolded person points to a spot. The family then has a few weeks to study the culture and foods of that country before Christmas so they can celebrate like the people there do. This year it was Argentina. Peg said that she wasn't even going to try to pronounce the names of the food the family members brought in, but it was delicious. The one thing she did mention by name was gnocchi, which is a potato dumpling. Isn't that a great way to celebrate Christmas and teach the grandkids about other places at the same time?

We are so lucky to have Peg as youth leader at our church. She comes up with the greatest ideas to teach the kids while they are having fun. She's also the leader of the area 4-H Club, the Barronett Dragons.

Sharai Hefty and Gray Rahn spent an exciting, fun filled (?) New Year's Eve together working on Gary's car in a freezing, unheated garage. Sharai said that one of their most important tools was her hair dryer, which they used to heat the radiator hose so they could push the core heater into it so the car would start. Sharai isn't exactly a mechanic and doesn't know the lingo all that well, but her use of the words "thingamabob" and "whatchamacalit," worked well. It probably won't be Gary or Sharai's favorite New Year's Eve memory, but I bet they won't forget this year for a while.

Kayla Peichel was home on leave from the Air Force over the holidays, and she had a really great time visiting with family and friends. Kayla is being transferred from New Mexico to Alaska, so after the new year she and her dad, John, started the long trek up there. They drove to Seattle and boarded a ferry boat. Oh, I forgot to mention that she also took her cat with her. Well, the cat was welcome on the ferry boat as long as it stayed in the car the entire time. I'm sure the cat was very happy to get to dry land again. Anyway, the ferry trip was supposed to take three days, but there was a bit of a breakdown, so they had to wait an extra day on the boat while a plane flew in a part needed for the repair. After they got off the boat they still had about 650 miles to travel by land to Fairbanks. Kayla will be stationed at Eielson AFB for the next three years, but I doubt that she will have time to miss the folks at home because everyone is promising (or threatening) her that they will be visiting.

Pat Olson had a family get-together at her home so that we could all visit with brother, Jim Copus. He had traveled up from Florida to be with his kids at Christmas, and then came up to see the rest of us during the week between the holidays. Dang snowbird. He always makes the rest of us look pale and unhealthy at this time of year. When he got back to Florida, and it was 20 below zero here, he called to complain about how cold it was down there. Actually, I better not complain about Jim too much because he always invites us to come down and stay with him whenever we want.

You know, it's kind of nice to have that minus 20 weather once in a while just to remind us how much we do not like it. When the temperature rose back to about minus 2, Duane and I were walking to the Red Brick and it felt almost balmy. Now, this week, we are supposed to have our January thaw- Yea! It's like God is letting us know that He hasn't forgotten us and that we will have nice weather again someday soon. We're already drooling over all the gardening and seed catalogs we get in the mail.

We saw Arnie coming out of the Red Brick Sunday morning and he asked if we knew what kinds of dogs tell nasty jokes. Nope. He said that it's mutts - get it? You kind of have to run the "s" from "it's" and the "m" from "mutts" together. (Not as funny if I have to explain it, is it? He can probably come up with a better one next time).

That's about all I know from Barronett so far this year. Oh, I hope you remember that the ice fishing contest is on Saturday, the 20th, and the annual meeting is this Sunday, the 14th. See you next time.

Northern Star Theatre Company to hold auditions for Summer Shows

The Northern Star Theatre Company will be holding auditions for their 2018 summer shows.

Auditions for the musical Anne of Green Gables will be held January 22 and 23 from 6-8. Those interested in auditioning for this musical should come with a prepared song of their choosing limited to 1-2 minutes. Please bring sheet music or accompaniment. Those auditioning will also be asked to do a reading from the show as well. Readings will be provided at auditions.

This new musical lovingly based on Lucy Maud Montgomery's timeless classic with its unforgettable characters, Anne of Green Gables brings the comical adventures of spunky red-headed orphan Anne Shirley to life, as she wins over her new family and the rest of Prince Edward Island, as well, with her spirit and imagination in this heartwarming story about love, family, and home.

Roles and age ranges include: Men and Woman ages 18+; Girls- ages 13-18; and Boys- ages 13-18.

Auditions for our August production of Ring of Fire-The Music of Johnny Cash will be February 5 and 6 from 6-8pm at Northern Star Theatre. Roles to be cast include one woman and four men. While it is preferable that these individuals play instruments, it is not a requirement. Additionally, it is noted that none of the characters portrays Johnny Cash. Those interested in auditioning should come prepared to sing a Johnny Cash song of their choosing. If you play an instrument, please come prepared to play as well.

Here is a list of roles and potential instruments: Treanna: Female vocalist, doubling on acoustic guitar if possible; Jason: Male vocalist playing acoustic guitar; Dave: Male vocalist playing electric guitar, banjo and fiddle; Eddie: Male vocalist playing acoustic and electric guitar; and Mark: Male vocalist playing bass (preferably double bass but electric bass can be used) and various percussion.

We are also looking for musicians to be a part of the show. Those interested should attend auditions as well and come prepared to play a Johnny Cash song.

Those interested in hearing clips of the music for either of these shows should go to www.theatricalrights.com for more information.

If there are questions about auditions, contact Amy Myers at nstcrice-lake@gmail.com

formal procedures in place for identifying and dealing with teen dating violence.

Tarrier says there's no better time than right now to move forward in dealing with the issue.

"We are really at a watershed moment right now as far as the spotlight being shined on sexual misconduct, harassment, abuse, abusive relationships, and so I think we really have a rare opportunity right now in Wisconsin to say, 'You know what? We take this problem extremely seriously,'" he states.

The goals of the legislation include promoting healthy relationships between teens, replacing harmful messages about women as sexual objects, and promoting a message of equality and respect.

"This is not a low-income problem or a high-income problem," Tarrier stresses. "This isn't a Milwaukee or a Madison problem. This is a nationwide issue and it affects all communities across our state, so (it's) really critical that we start to take steps to address this problem."

Tarrier says the abusive adults of tomorrow are likely beginning to develop their pattern of unhealthy behaviors in teen relationships.

Amy sold greeting cards to supplement the family's income before becoming clerk at the Exeland Post Office. She eventually became postmaster and served in that capacity until her retirement in 1994. ## New Year's Message, 2018

By: Pastor Mike Brubaker

First United Methodist Church, Cumberland

Happy New Year! In the church, the new year begins with the seasons of Advent and Christmas. God revealed to Mary that 'the baby she delivered would soon deliver her.' Her response to that revelation was joyful obedience. The same revelation was made to Joseph and the shepherds, and their response, like Mary's was obedience and adoration. With the first Sunday in January, we begin the season of Epiphany, God's revelation to the Wise men. They realized the significance of Jesus' birth, they followed God's directions, bowed down and humbled themselves before the Christ child, offering their gifts, and returned by a different path. What will this revelation mean to us this year, Emmanuel, God with us? What will our response be? Will this new year be different for us? Will we take a different route, or now that Christmas is behind us, will we go back to the 'got to get ahead' lives, we have always lived?

This is a time for making New Year's resolutions, how are you doing on your list? The typical 'top ten' resolutions look like this: Lose weight, get in shape, get organized, spend less money, save more money, eat healthier, quit smoking, drink less, spend more time with family, and manage stress better. There are a lot of good personal goals out there, physical goals, financial goals, vocational goals, and relational goals, and striving after these is not a bad idea, but what about 'spiritual goals'? Are these part of your list: read the Bible more, actually read your daily devotional daily! Maybe we improve our prayer life, join a Bible study, be more involved in the church, visit someone that is sick, or maybe just lonely and needs someone to be there. Perhaps we could volunteer at the food shelf or 'Habitat for Humanity.'

What about New Year's resolutions for the church. What will ministry in our churches look like this year? We are God's miracle works. Will you let God plant a seed in your heart and let it grow? God doesn't need a whole lot of resources, a few fish and a few loaves of bread can go a long way. But we do need to offer them, so God can bless them, and we can distribute them to a hungry world. If we do 'all we can,' God will do 'all we can't'! What will our response be to the revelation that 'God is in the manger'? Will we trust and obey? Do we dare resolve this year to offer all we have and all we are in service to God?

Food For Thought

by Hope Lee Vicich

I think we can all agree that, though it took a while to do it, Winter has finally arrived! Holidays are over, school is back in session, ice fishing is in full swing and, according to the Barron County Health Department, so is cold and flu season.

The average adult contracts between two and four colds each year, mostly between September and May. Medical science has no cure for these highly contagious viral infections, but for millennia we plucky humans have been trying to come up with ways to either ward off or ease the suffering of these annual plagues. Here are some of the interesting tidbits I have found.

Folk remedies for avoiding colds: The most popular folk tale making the rounds today is to leave half of a freshly cut onion in a dish by your bedside. The belief is that the onion will absorb germs and bacteria from the air. There are testimonials all over the internet swearing by this.

Other popular folk remedies involve garlic. Depending on the culture, they say you can either hang it around the house (apparently it works for colds and vampires!) or eat massive amounts to stave off a cold. I'm thinking that this might work because the smell alone would keep people away from you or your house and thereby lessen your exposure to the germs! Other ingestibles said to keep the cold bug away are vitamin C, zinc, echinacea and/or ginger.

Flu, however, is another animal entirely. Influenza, commonly known as the "flu," is an extremely contagious respiratory illness caused by influenza A or B viruses. Flu appears most frequently in winter and early spring. The flu virus attacks the body by spreading through the upper and/or lower respiratory tract. The Barron County Health Department has issued a warning that this season is expected to be especially tough. The story on the front page gives excellent advice for dealing with the flu.

The only flu advice I can offer deals with the stomach flu. What my Mom always swore by when we had an upset tummy was ginger ale and saltine crackers. Still my "go to" remedy when my kids or I are sick.

In my research for this column, I found that the most universally accepted "cure" for what ails you is...Chicken Soup! This recipe comes from a dear friend with a long line of Jewish grandmothers behind her. She swears it works and I swear it is yummy!

Shelly's Magic Chicken-Garlic Soup

Great in winter, great in cold/flu season. Very easy to make - it's just a lot of peeling and chopping. If you're a vegetarian, just leave out the chicken. It's still great broth.

Ingredients:

1 1/2 pounds boneless, skinless chicken thighs
1 large onion - peeled and chopped
1 1/2 cups carrots - chopped
1 cup celery - diced
1 turnip - chopped (or rutabaga)
1 parsnip - chopped
1 leek - chopped
You can also add shallots or scallions
1 large bulb of garlic - all cloves peeled and smashed (you can use 2 or more if you really like garlic)
2 cans Campbell's chicken broth
1 bay leaf
2 teaspoons thyme
1 teaspoon sage
1 teaspoon rosemary
2 tablespoons parsley.
A dash of red pepper flakes, cayenne pepper or chili powder
Salt & pepper to taste

Toss everything in a large pot, cover with water. Bring to roiling boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for at least 2 hours. Let sit for a while to cool. Skim off excess fat and any floating bits that look like they need skimming. You can also put in fridge over night. Reheat and serve.

If you like noodles, use extra wide egg noodles. Put them in the soup while reheating and serve when they are tender. Unless you are going to eat the whole recipe in one seating - DO NOT put the noodles in the main pot of soup. They will either soak up all the liquid or disintegrate, leaving a cloudy broth.

It should keep in the fridge for 4-5 days. You'll finish it well before then. Enjoy!

Here is to your good health!

Red Cross: Urgent call for blood and platelet donations during National Blood Donor Month

Severe weather forces blood drive cancellations causing thousands of donations to go uncollected

This January, National Blood Donor Month, the American Red Cross has an urgent need for blood and platelet donors of all blood types to make an appointment to give now and help address a winter blood donation shortage.

Severe winter weather has had a tremendous impact on blood donations already this year, with more than 150 blood drives forced to cancel causing over 5,500 blood and platelet donations to go uncollected. This is in addition to seasonal illnesses, such as the flu, and hectic holiday schedules collectively contributing to more than 28,000 fewer donations than what was needed in November and December.

"Even temporary disruptions to blood and platelet donations can diminish the availability for hospital patients," said Sue Thesenga, communications manager of the local Red Cross Blood Services Region. It's the blood on the shelves that helps save lives in an emergency, and that's why we're asking eligible individuals to make an appointment to give blood or platelets today."

While serving local hospitals is the first priority, the Red Cross can move blood products to where they're needed most. This allows generous donors throughout the country to contribute to the national blood supply and potentially help patients locally and in storm-affected areas.

While all blood types are urgently needed, there is a more critical need for the following blood and donation types right now:

- Platelets: The clotting portion of blood primarily given to cancer patients during treatment and always in great demand.
- Type O negative: The blood type that can be transfused to almost everyone and is what doctors reach for in trauma situations.
- Type B negative: The blood type that can be transfused to type B Rh-positive and negative patients.
- Type AB: The plasma type that can be transfused to almost everyone and can be donated through a platelet or plasma donation, where available, or during a regular blood donation.

received 14 units of blood and seven units of plasma before she and her newborn son, Rusher, were flown to a nearby hospital. There, she received additional transfusions, and Rusher was moved to the neonatal intensive care unit, where he also received a blood transfusion to increase his red blood cell count.

"My family and I are so thankful for all the blood donors," said Hrouda. "It is safe to say that without their time and donations, Rusher and I would not be here today. Because of donors, I get to watch my kids grow up and become the adults they dream of being."

The Hroudas are just two examples of the many patients who depend on blood and platelet donors. Accident and burn victims, heart surgery and organ transplant patients, and patients receiving treatment for leukemia, cancer or sickle cell disease may all require blood to save their lives. The Red Cross must collect more than 13,000 blood donations every day for patients at approximately 2,600 hospitals across the country.

Please check redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS for current blood donation center days and hours.
