

WisDOT:WIS 48 bridge replacements to begin in July

Traffic will be detoured.
On July 16, 2018, Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) is scheduled to begin a bridge replacement project between WIS 25 and 17th Street on WIS 48 in Barron County. The proposed improvements include replacing three existing bridges with two box culverts and a bridge structure that will increase safety while traveling on WIS 48. The existing bridge structures were constructed in 1950 and are in need replacement.
Janke General Contractors is the prime contractor for the $1.2 million project, paid for with state transportation funds.
Proposed Traffic Impacts: Construction is scheduled to begin on July 16, 2018.

During construction, WIS 48 will be closed from WIS 25 to 17th street. The posted detour will follow WIS 25 south from WIS 48, then east on US 8 and north on US 53 until the intersection of US 53 and WIS 48. Resident and property owners within the work zone will have access during construction.
Construction is currently scheduled for completion by October 12, 2018.

Donut Dash run to benefit “Shop with a Cop”

The 4th annual Barron County Cops & Robbers Donut Dash is going to start on Saturday, July 21, at the Barron County Fairgrounds. For the third year in a row, we will kick off the run with a tribute to Law Enforcement Officers that died in the line of duty. This will include all of the fallen officers in the US since our last release on July 22, 2017. The tribute will take place right before the run, at approximately 8:15 a.m. Please join us in honoring these brave heroes.
Following the tribute, at 8:30 a.m., the Cops & Robbers Donut Dash will start just inside the entrance to the fairgrounds. The cops & Robbers Donut Dash 5K is put on by the Sheriff's Department and the proceeds go to the Barron County Law Enforcement Foundation which then uses those funds for the “Shop With A Cop” program. The 2017 holiday season saw over 60 children provided with gift cards to shop with deputies and other officers from the Barron County Sheriff's Department, State Patrol, Wisconsin DNR, and the Barron, Chetek, Cumberland, Rice Lake, and Turtle Lake Police Departments. The children used the gift cards to shop for their families for the holiday. After shopping the kids and officers all have dinner together. This event is always a special day for everyone involved.

Every paid registration receives free Saturday admission to the fair. If registered before July 7th, every paid registration receives a t-shirt. After July 7th, the extra t-shirts are first come, first served for registrants. Also...There will be donuts! Not a runner? That's Ok! participants are welcome to walk the route. This event is for fun and a good cause. The past few years we even had some participants dress in costumes! “Prison” themed costumes seem to be popular. Don't forget to bring your strollers-the little ones will have fun too and kids under 7 are free. Due to the potential for hot weather, bringing dogs is not encouraged. You can register on line by going to www.BarronSheriff.org or directly to the registration site here <https://www.signmeup.com/reg/form/126045/registration>. You can also register on site at the fair at the Sheriff's Department booth starting on Wednesday, July 18th.
If you are interested in keeping up with what is going on with the race, go to the Barron County Sheriff's Department's Facebook page or look or the Cops & Robbers Donut Dash 5K event on Facebook. Email barrondonutdash@gmail.com with any questions.

Beekeeper Richard Koehn, owner of Milk & Honey Acres in Clinton, was called to Burger King last week to remove a migratory swarm of bees that completely engulfed a fire hydrant. Koehn gently sifted through the bees until he located the Queen. Once the Queen was placed safely in a transport hive, the rest of the worker bees followed her right in. If you ever encounter this type of swarm, please do not attempt to handle it yourself, call the professionals! if you need assistance or information, Koehn can be reached at (715) 357-6277.

Council approves funding for new squad car; housing study

At the July City Council meeting, held on Tuesday July 3rd, the council dealt mainly with funding matters. The council approved funding of a new squad car through the State Trust Fund, money for a housing study, funding for TID #8 (Hines Lakeview Dr. construction, and two projects from TID #9 - Berdan/22nd Ave. and 14th Avenue.
Also approved were payments to Dave DeSantis for his work on the 8th Avenue and Wickre Dr., Forest Path and Woodland Trail projects.
They also awarded the Chip and surface sealing bid for 3rd and 8th Avenues ($33,032.00) and Western and 2nd Avenues ($10,198) to Farhner Co.
In non-funding matters, a change order for the ditching on 8th Avenue was approved.
The Council also voted to amend Ordinance MC 9.07 (Loud Noise Prohibited) to include a start time for enforcement purposes. The ordinance previously had an evening limit but no morning language. Now, loud noise is generally prohibited before 7 a.m. on weekday and 8 a.m. on Saturdays.
Lastly, the council approved “rain date” licenses for the Fourth of July event should it need to be cancelled because of bad weather.
The next regular council meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, August 7th at 7:00 p.m.

Pancakes galore at the Firehouse!

Firemen Brian Paffel and David Ekenstedt serve pancakes to Turtle Lake Police Chief Al Gabe at the annual Fireman's Pancake Breakfast on the 4th of July at the Firehouse. As usual, the food was great, the lines were long, and money was rasied to support the Fire District. Thanks to all who came!

Bekkum named as 2018 Distinguished Agriculturalist

Cumberland resident Victor Bekkum has been named the 2018 Wisconsin Distinguished Agriculturalist by the College of Agriculture, Food and Environmental Sciences (CAFES) at UW-River Falls. Bekkum is a professor emeritus of agricultural engineering at Iowa State University. He was presented with the award by CAFES Dean Dale Gallenberg at the college's 52nd Annual Scholarship and Awards Banquet April 19.

In front of 300 students, family members, donors, faculty and staff, Bekkum reflected on his career path and provided advice to current students.

"All you young people here are probably more worried about your grades, and whether you are getting an A, B or C...but it's the people teaching you, working with you, who have the most influence on you whether you realize it or not," he said.

Bekkum described how an uncle steered him to UW-River Falls. The late Marv Thompson, professor emeritus of agricultural education at UWRF, encouraged him to go on to get his Ph.D. Thompson introduced Bekkum to Thomas Hoerner a colleague at Iowa State University (ISU). After completing his Ph.D. at ISU, Bekkum joined their faculty and became a long-time colleague of Hoerner's. It was Hoerner who nominated Bekkum for the Distinguished Agriculturalist Award.

As a youngster, Bekkum remembers helping the soil conservation technician stake out contour strips on his family farm in Vernon County. As an adult, he devoted himself to agricultural education, first as a high school teacher and then as a faculty member at ISU.

Over his 35-year career, he did much to help students grow and become leaders. He served as an FFA and student club adviser, developed the instructional materials resource center for the agricultural education department at UWRF, served as a supervisor for student teachers/interns and assumed state and national leadership roles with the FFA Ag Mechanics Career Development event.

Over the years, Bekkum received many awards for his efforts including being honored as a NACTA Teacher Fellow, receiving the

Northwoods Notebook: More chaos than usual on this Fourth by Larry Werner

The Fourth of July invasion is never without its chaotic moments, with 15 children, grandchildren, and assorted other relatives at our place. But this was the first time we dealt with “isolated”and “scattered” thunderstorms on the big day.

Our guests began arriving Tuesday afternoon: a niece and her two kids from Chicago leading the pack. Then, my daughter and daughter-in-law got here, picking up three of their kids from camp, followed by a son-in-law with his two sons. Wednesday morning, two of my sons arrive about the same time as my ex-wife and her husband.

The plan was to have a cookout/birthday party for my granddaughter, Tatum Wistrill, at Grandma Barb Wistrill’s place on the other end of Beaver Dam Lake from where we live. The party was to be at noon, and we were to surprise her with one of those nine-foot unicorn floaties at her unicorn-themed celebration. But as her father, Dan, and I were blowing up the monster lake toy, the skies opened, and we rushed for cover after tying the half-inflated unicorn to a cement block on Barb’s dock.

Because our house is large enough for entertaining a crowd as large as we had, the party moved to Serenity Shores, and Barb brought the beautiful unicorn cupcakes she and daughter Korri had baked and frosted. So lunch was served and happy birthdays sung inside rather than on Barb’s beautiful yard that slopes down to the lake.

So now what? The kids played games in our lower level, and the adults played cards, talked and napped upstairs as the rain fell and thunder clapped. The plan was to spend the afternoon at Barb’s, sunning, skiing, swimming, tubing behind the speedboat and contributing to the holiday noise pollution with rides on the jet ski. But here we were inside my living room listening to the little ones saying they were bored and wanting to know when the rain would stop and would there be fireworks.

It did stop, and the sun came out, and neighbor Carol Horn watched us parade from our place down the hill to our pontoon to make the cruise to Barb’s place for the lake play that is our Fourth of July tradition. Dan had got the unicorn inflated, and granddaughter Tatum was properly surprised and delighted when it was towed with the jet ski from a neighbor’s dock with her dad and grandpa aboard.

But after a couple hours the skies darkened again, the rain and thunder came again, and we raced back to our place with the sideways precipitation pelting my face, making me feel a bit like a Lake Superior captain steaming to safe harbor in a hailstorm. We tied up at my slip, raced up the hill and spent another couple hours with seven little kids and a dozen adults who were wondering if this annual gathering on Independence Day was such a good idea.

This was the first year Barb’s husband, Grandpa Roger, wasn’t presiding over the festivities from his chair next to the fire pit. I couldn’t help but wonder if Roger was chuckling at the unicorn-inflating, party-transplanting and storm-fleeing going on down below from where he now resides. And then, when the skies brightened again, wondered if he was pulling some strings up there so Cumberland’s legendary fireworks could happen.

We gathered again at Roger and Barb’s place, where the kids did sparklers lit in Roger’s fire pit before boarding his pontoon and mine for the after-dark trip along with dozens of other boats to near the city beach. By the time the first oohs and ahhs were heard, the night was perfect for watching fireworks, just as it had been on other Fourths. Roger’s boat, to which mine was tethered, was piloted by Korri’s husband, Scott, and jokes were made that he drove the pontoon well, but not as well as the old coach did.

Roger told me a couple years ago that he didn’t remember his records as Cumberland football coach, but he’d never forget the year he beat Rice Lake. I couldn’t help but think as we enjoyed the fireworks Roger enjoyed so much for so many years that he must have been taking some devilish pleasure in knowing that our fireworks happened, but those in Rice Lake were called off.

Opinion

By Craig Bucher

The front page of Sunday’s Star-Tribune had an article that really caused me to think - “As churches close, a way of life fades.” The article goes on to chart the declining rolls of mainline churches across the country. Losses have occurred across all denominations and the result is the closing of churches and the end of a way of life. The article followed the prospective closing of LaSalle Lutheran Church, a small church, on the Minnesota prairie. The article pointed out that the ELCA has lost nearly 200,000 members since the year 2000 and 150 congregations. Catholic churches, in Minnesota, have declined from 720 in 2000 to 639 last year, Meanwhile the rest of the country hasn’t fared much better. Since 1990 the Episcopal Church, the Presbyterian Church USA and the United Church of Christ have lost almost half of their members. The ELCA has lost almost a third. The way of life the article talks about, is my way of life. It used to be that the church was the center of community life. Sharon, for example was baptized, confirmed, was married all in the same church. My father was the Sunday School leader for almost 20 years in addition to serving as the congregational president a couple of times. Sharon’s father also taught Sunday School and served as congregational president. Our mothers were also active in numerous church activities. It was and is a good life. I am sorry that younger generations have left the church. They are the losers. I reject the notion that the “church doesn’t appeal.” I don’t go to church to be entertained, I go for spiritual strength and renewal. I am optimistic. The church will not go away. It may evolve but it will always be there offering a beacon, shining in the darkness of this dreary world. Give it a chance.

To The Editor:

A while back, I was asked who I thought I would endorse for the U. S. Senate and I really didn’t know what to say. I, along with a lot of American citizens, were feeling pretty disappointed in our governmental process. I started to do a little searching, and discussing with friends about my concerns, some gave their opinions, as to whom they were going to vote for, and others didn’t know. Then I found Griffin Jones. I looked into his beliefs and convictions, and I was very impressed! It is definitely time for a change, for “new blood” to step up, and take charge with new ideas and plans to help Wisconsin stay strong, and also to be the encouragement of strength for our great country. After following his campaign for months and talking to him several times, I can say with absolute confidence that the person I endorse for United States Senator is Griffin Jones!

Griffin sees the division that is happening in our country and is committed to working to bridge the divide. He knows what is happening to our farmers and truckers, understands how important they are to Wisconsin and is committed to working to improve those industries. He has connected with countless outdoorsmen and women, people like him and they have supported him big time. Griffin doesn’t support the big money billionaires and Super PACs, he wants to work only for the people of Wisconsin. Griffin believes in the sanctity of life from conception to natural death with dignity.

I urge everyone to look beyond the “same old way”

What President Trump is missing in his odd feud with Harley-Davidson

MADISON, Wis. – If ever there was an unlikely target for President Trump’s ire, it should be Wisconsin icon Harley-Davidson Inc.

Founded in a 10-foot by 14-foot shed in Milwaukee 115 years ago, the company is a muscular symbol of American manufacturing and the nation’s love for the open road. Harley may have a “bad-boy” image in some quarters, but that’s paired with a free-spirited reputation that should appeal to a president who likely views himself as a bit of both.

And yet, Trump has repeatedly tweaked Harley over its decision to move production of motorcycle destined for the European Union to its international factories. The president scolded the company June 29 when he spoke at the Foxconn Technology Group groundbreaking in Racine County, and most recently July 3 when he tweeted he will be “working with other Motor Cycle companies who want to move into the U.S.”

Trump’s passion for returning manufacturing jobs to America is understandable, but three facts appear to be missing in his unprecedented singling out of one company.

First, Harley-Davidson became an international firm not long after it moved out of the shed. It has been selling motorcycles overseas for about a century.

In addition to U.S. assembly plants in Wisconsin, York, Pa., and Kansas City, Mo. (slated to be closed), it has plants in Brazil and India, with another plant opening soon in Thailand. Some parts come from nations such as Germany, Italy, Taiwan, Japan and Mexico. It has been making motorcycles overseas for 20 years.

Harley’s second-largest market is Europe, where about 16 percent of its new motorcycles are sold. Last year, Harley sold about 40,000 bikes there.

It is a player in Europe despite the presence of other well-known manufacturers such as Triumph, BMW and Ducati, not to mention Japanese brands. In fact, the world’s oldest Harley-Davidson riders’ club was founded 90 years ago in Prague, the picturesque capital of the Czech Republic. The Milwaukee Journal-Sentinel reported that tens of thousands of riders from 70 countries showed up for a July 5-8 anniversary celebration.

Second, companies often react to changing government rules by doing what’s necessary to survive.

As the president ramped up his tariffs on goods made elsewhere, other nations responded in kind. In the European Union, that meant raising an existing six percent tariff to 31 percent – essentially, adding about $2,200 to the cost of each motorcycle made in the United States and sold in Europe.

This came after Trump’s earlier tariffs and steel and aluminum added to Harley’s raw material costs.

Already concerned by slipping sales in its home market, largely the product of an aging demographic, Harley executives responded by doing what many executives would do: They took steps to preserve sales in a growing segment of the market.

Trump’s response to Harley has been stern reminders that the company could recoup anticipated tariff losses through scheduled federal tax cuts. He also warned, “they will be taxed like never before” if the company goes ahead with its off-shore production plans.

Third, manufacturing isn’t real estate. President Trump made money largely in the real-estate business, which is unlike manufacturing in many ways. Land and buildings can’t be physically moved overseas, even if the ownership can and often is moved. Manufacturing, farming and other sectors rely on the free movement of products across state and national borders, and tariffs can disrupt that flow.

America’s economy is growing in many ways, but the Trump-Harley dispute shows how the economy could suffer if companies are forced by government to make choices they would rather not make. Harley has survived a lot in its history – the Great Depression, World War II, mergers, acquisitions and even its own missteps in past eras when it sought tariffs on foreign competitors. It will survive the Trump tariffs, too, but others may not.

Still is president of the Wisconsin Technology Council. He is the former associate editor of the Wisconsin State Journal.

Vern Altman of Farmers Union Co-op said there was no second crop of hay, and the farmers can’t pasture their stock. Don Drost, Barron County Extension Agent, described the drought situation as disastrous and horrendous. He said there is only about half a crop of alfalfa, the corn is starting to die, and the farmers are chopping its green for silage. He said farmers are looking all over for hay. If they do find it, the price is $120 per ton and up, rather than the normal $80 cost.

Shelby L. Anderson, 23, of Comstock, has been charged with disorderly conduct.

According to the criminal complaint, on Tuesday, July 3, 2018, at approximately 4:20 p.m. Barron County Deputy Weise responded to a call of a physical altercation between two females at 1868 US Highway 63 in Comstock. Upon arrival Deputy Weise met with B. G., who told him that she was the caller and explained that she had asked Anderson several times to leave. After requesting her to leave for a third time Anderson swore at her, made a fist and brought her hands up in a posturing position to get ready to strike B. G. She said she grabbed Anderson's arm and eventually her hair in an attempt to get her to stop swinging at her. She said Anderson started pulling her hair and then punched her in the left cheek and eye. Deputy Weise made contact with Anderson, who admitted to being told by B. G. to leave at least two times. Her boyfriend said he told Anderson to just get in the vehicle and leave as she was causing a commotion at B.G.s mobile home. Anderson denied punching B. G. in the face, but said her elbow may have come around and hit her in the face while they were flailing their arms around.

If convicted Anderson may be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than 90 days, or both. Her hearing will be held August 15, 2018.

Philip C. Nelson, 49, of Prairie Farm, has been charged with theft by a contractor $5,000-$10,000, and theft-false representation $5,000-$10,000.

On April 4, 2018, at 4:00 p.m. C. P. went to the Barron County Sheriff's Office and provided a written statement that he had contracted Nelson of Heating and Cooling America for Nelson to install a boiler heating unit in a building he was having built on his property.

C. P. said that on February 13, 2018, he entered into a contract with Nelson and gave him a check for $5,786 to purchase the boiler. Nelson told him that he would be purchasing the boiler and that it would be ordered on Tuesday and that he would be back in a week or two to install it.

C. P. said that Nelson never returned and he made numerous unsuccessful attempts to contact Nelson, including leaving messages and going to Nelson's residence.

On March 20, 2018 C. P. used Star 67 to conceal his phone number and attempted to contact Nelson. Nelson answered the phone and told C. P. that he no longer had his money, and that C. P. should not mess with him.

On April 17, 2018, C. P. dropped off copies of documents which the Sheriff's Office had requested. One of these documents was a check issued to Nelson in the amount of $5,786. The memo section of the check indicated the check was written for a boiler. The check was endorsed by Nelson and stamped received by their credit union. Detective Nelson also reviewed a copy of the contract, which was not dated. He asked C. P. about that and C. P. said he recalled signing the document, but that he did not recall whether or not the document was dated. C. P. said that the agreement was for Nelson to provide all supplies and labor to install the boiler unit, and that the total agreed upon price for labor and materials was to be $7,080. C. P. said the initial check was a down payment with the remaining balance to be due upon the completion of the project.

Detective Nelson obtained Nelson's bank records which showed that Nelson received the check from C. P. for $5,786 which was deposited on February 13th, and there was an immediate withdrawal from the account on the same date in the amount of $4,700, leaving a balance of $1,086. The final monthly account balance in the business savings account for the month of February was $1,255.70 and the corresponding checking account had a starting and ending balance of zero.

The bank statement from the same account dated March 31, 2018 indicated several withdrawals and a few small deposits, and the final balance for that month and the savings account was $274.32 and a balance in the corresponding checking account of $322.44.

The bank statements for the same account for the month of April indicated a starting balance of $274.32 and a final balance of $5.02; with a starting balance of $322.44 and an ending balance of $1.01 in the corresponding checking account.

On June 26, 2018, at approximately 10:00 a.m. Detective Nelson made contact with Philip Nelson. Detective Nelson asked him if he had cashed and deposited the check made payable to him by C. P., and he stated he did. Philip Nelson said that he did not have any of the money left.

Philip Nelson told Detective Nelson that he was currently working with his fiancée's attorney in the hope of obtaining a large million-dollar settlement which he could use to set up payment plan to replay C. P. Philip Nelson described the arrangement further, and it was readily apparent to Detective Nelson that Philip had fallen victim to a Facebook internet scam in which one wires money overseas to suspects who report to be the future soulmates of victims. Philip Nelson said he had wired C. P.'s money to his "fiancée" in Italy.

If convicted Philip Nelson may be fined not more than $20,00, or imprisoned for not more than 12 years, or both. His preliminary hearing will be held July 19, 2018.

Daniel C. Beach, 18, of Turtle Lake, has been charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, 3rd, operating a motor vehicle after revocation of his driver's license, 1st, and felony bail jumping. (Failure to comply with the terms of his bond by committing a crime);

Davyonne T. Evans, 17, of Eau Claire, has been charged with possession of THC, and misdemeanor bail jumping. (Failure to comply with the terms of his bond by committing a new crime);

Dustin J. Johnson, 21, of Turtle Lake, has been charged with possession of THC, obstructing an officer, and felony bail jumping. (Failure to comply with the terms of his bond by committing a new crime).

The criminal complaint states that on Wednesday, June 27, at 5:55 p.m. Turtle Lake Police Officer Wood conducted a traffic stop on US Highway 8 near Pine Street, the registration of the vehicle indicated the vehicle was registered to a driver whose driver's license status was revoked due to a refusal.

When Officer Wood conducted the traffic stop he could clearly see the driver and front passenger switch positions, and there were substantial furtive movements by all parties in the vehicle. Officer Wood made contact with Dustin Johnson who had moved into the driver's seat of the vehicle. Officer Wood could see that Johnson was extremely nervous and smelled of marijuana. He repeatedly insisted that he was the driver.

Officer Wood then directed his attention to the subject who was sitting in the rear middle passenger section of the vehicle, who was later identified as Daniel Beach. Beach was the individual who he observed driving the vehicle. Officer Wood asked Beach who was driving the vehicle and he said that he was. He asked Beach why he switched seats and Beach said it was because he did not have a license and he was on probation and probation would not be happy he was driving without a license. There was a strong odor of marijuana coming from Beach's person.

Officer Wood made contact with the subject in the rear right passenger seat, who he identified verbally as Davyonne Evans. Officer Wood could detect a strong odor of marijuana coming from Evans person.

Officer Wood made contact with the subject in the rear left passenger section of the vehicle, who he identified as Jacob Curley. Curley also smelled of marijuana and that when asked if there was anything in the vehicle that Officer Wood should know about, Curley said that there was marijuana in his hoodie, which was in the vehicle where he was sitting. Evans said that all the subjects had smoked marijuana about an hour earlier, but not in the vehicle.

Officer Wood searched the vehicle and found a bag of a green leafy substance, which he believed to be marijuana inside a sweatshirt on the rear driver's side seat, which Curley later admitted was his.

Inside a backpack Officer Wood located 95 sandwich bags, 10 gem bags, 2 torn sandwich bags with a white powdery substance on them, 2 cigars, a Ziploc bag with white powdery substance on it and a small amount of a green leafy substance.

Evans said that the backpack and the Ziploc bags were his; that the bag that had white powder and weed in it was also his; and that the white powder was baking soda. The bag smelled strongly of marijuana.

Evans again indicated that all of the subjects had smoked marijuana about an hour prior. Officer Wood asked Beach when the last time he smoked marijuana was and he stated about an hour ago.

Beach agreed to participate in field sobriety testing. After the test based on Officer Woods' observations, he believed Beach to be under the influence of a controlled substance. He was placed under arrest.

Johnson continued to insist that he was the driver of the vehicle. Johnson and Evans were both placed under arrest.

Deputy Fick overheard via police radio information regarding the above traffic stop, and responded to the location of the stop. Officer Wood advised him of the situation and Deputy Fick agreed to stand by for safety reasons.

Officer Wood eventually requested that Deputy Fick take custody of Johnson and Evans and he did. Deputy Fick searched both incident to arrest and did not locate anything of evidentiary value. He transported Evans and Johnson to jail while Officer Wood continued processing Beach.

While en route to the Barron County Jail, Deputy Fick detected a strong order of raw marijuana coming from the vehicle. He advised both subjects that they were going to Barron County Jail and that they would be searched there. They advised Deputy Fick that they had "crotched" marijuana.

Both Johnson and Evans both eventually turned over a green leafy substance removed from their pants, which Deputy Fick believed to be marijuana.

If convicted Daniel Beach may be fined not more than $14,500 or imprisoned for not more than eight years, or both. His driver's license will be revoked for not more than four years;

Dayvonne T. Evans, may be fined not more than $11,000 or imprisoned for not more than six years and six months, or both;

Dustin Johnson, may be fined not more than $11,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year and three months. His driver's license shall be revoked for not more than five years.

Beach and Evans are scheduled to appear July 12, 2018. A court date has not yet been set for Johnson.

SUMMER FISHING IN THE DARK

If you've never fished at night during the summer, you're missing out on a very special experience. Before you try it, develop an intimate feel and knowledge of the water you are going to fish.

Fishing the lake a lot during the day can help you develop a mental map. Find a potential fish holding structure and be aware of landmarks identifiable in the dark. Also, become familiar with any hazards that you might have a hard time seeing at night when cruising down the lake.

Launch your boat an hour or two before dark so you can organize your gear and take advantage of fish that feed heavily just before night falls.

Submerged islands and offshore humps are hard to find, but fish love to prow through areas in search of a meal. Some fish species will move into the shallows and aggressively feed while others will gather around lighted docks or bridge piers.

Besides good fishing, you'll learn to enjoy the feel of night fishing when it's cool and quiet.

Check out all the great night fishing gear at Bass Pro Shops and Cabela's stores or go to www.basspro.com or www.cabelas.com.

A Great Week in Canada

Hello friends,
This week, like last week I am writing to you about my 7-day fly in fishing trip to Shultz lake which is 63-air miles northwest of Red Lake, Ontario.
Wednesday, June 20th
High 92, low 63
For the first time in at least 15-years we are experiencing extreme heat on this trip which has among other things caused the lake to be very low, and forest fire potential to be high. Back around '95 we were on this lake when a fire burnt the south end and it was crazy to watch as for several days the fire approached.
What was crazy about that story is that when the fire hit the south end we took boats down and watched the area where we bear hunt burn. The following day half of our crew was flown out by helicopter. I stayed with a couple of other guys to help fire fighters put sprinklers on the cabins and hook up water pumps
The whole deal was really intense and just as the "s" was about to hit the fan, a thunderstorm put the fire out.
Today I headed down to Bear Lake with the entire crew in three boats which is about a 7-mile ride. I would be fishing with my friend Bob "Bobco" Pearson from Denham Springs, Louisiana.
Like every day on this trip the walleye were very hungry and literally without any effort we caught 37 in just over an hour and then began working our way back to the gang which was two lakes up and preparing for a shore lunch.
A funny thing happened as Trent Schuster who is my 26-year-old nephew was winning our daily northern pike bet with a 34-incher. I am hyper as heck, and had to throw casts with my old reliable "Musky" Red Eye as my brother Tom cooked walleye fillets and all 8 of us ate nothing but walleye.
Just as I was about to pull my lure out of the water a very sickly 34 ¾ inch northern slithered into the shallows, everyone saw it, I did a figure 8, it grabbed it and whamo, I beat Trent for the coveted gator of the day award.

I also would pull ahead of my old buddy Bobco who was winning the walleye for the week bet with his 26-incher as I landed a 27-incher. Bobco and I have a very funny rivalry and I really enjoyed putting salt in that wound, so tonight at camp I really poured it out.
I have been coming here with family and friends since 1982 and today is my day to cook. In other words, the other six days I watch someone else cook and do the dishes. Every year we have a fish boil and so far it has never fallen on my cooking day. Today it did, and am I ever glad that it did.
Here is a quick run down. In the largest pot you can find boil a bunch of red potatoes in very salty water. Than add a lot of onions, for the last 12-minutes put in as several pounds of walleye fillets.
Pour this into a strainer and serve with rye bread, a vegetable, and a bunch of melted butter. This meal will now be served in my house several times a year.
Last week I wrote that my good friends Pete and Elizabeth Hagedorn who created and owned Chimo Lodge and Outposts since 1975 have sold it to my new friend Chris LeBlanc and his family. Today Chris had a couple of pilots fly a brand new Lund boat in for us, and that certainly put a smile on our faces.
Tonight after an excellent dinner I made the mistake of wrestling with Bobco. Imagine a mink and a grizzly wrestling. I was the mink, and the grizzly reformed my skeletal structure.
On the last night of this incredible annual adventure Trent was fishing with his dad, Dick Schuster, and his second cousin Landon Woodruff. Landon caught a 24.5 inch walleye and Trent a 27 5/8 inch beauty which beat my 27 for big walleye of the week.
Last year Trent was winning big northern for the week and I beat him on the last night so he had sweet revenge.
In my opinion, fly in Canadian fishing trips are about as good as it gets. Though it is exhausting to get to your destination. The next 7-days are pure relaxation and the no cell service is like an incredible gift as the total getaway creates a true vacation.
I am already planning next year in my mind and Canadian fly-In fishing vacations are a great get away.

Shallow water made access from lake to lake difficult.

how I can beat TRENT SCHUSTER in any and all fish bets!
Live large!

Barronett News By Judy Pieper

This has been a long week! It seems that, when a holiday falls in the middle of the week, we get to celebrate from the beginning of one weekend until the end of the next weekend. There were so many things going on it was hard to get to all of them.

Pooch Olson traveled up from her home in Minnesota to spend the week with Dick and Ruth Grover. Ruth said that they had so much fun visiting and talking over old times. They did some shopping and had lunch at the Red Brick Cafe on Thursday with Anita Lehmann. Pooch ended her visit on Friday so that she wouldn't have to contend with all the traffic returning to the Twin Cities on Sunday afternoon.

Terry Goodrich asked me to let you know that he found a pair of reading glass over by Lundmark Camper Sales in Cumberland last week. If you lost a pair, give Terry a call.

Prairie Fire Children's Theatre and Frederic Community Ed presented The Wizard of Oz at the Frederic High School on Friday, June 29th. Paul Ridgeway and his great-grandson, Kohnor Pagel were among the many attendees at the play. Paul's grandchildren, Hailey and Carter Ridgeway played monkeys in the play. Another young lady from Barronett, Lilly Herman, was also a monkey in the play. Paul and Kohnor enjoyed the play and said that all the actors were great.

My kids threw a birthday party for me on Saturday, June 30th at the community center here in Barronett. I had such a nice time. My cousin, Sue Meier came up from Monroe on Thursday to help with the preparations and stayed to visit until Monday. (We're always glad when she can come up for a few days). Margurite Daane was here from Madison, and the Hook family, Stan and Pat, Chris and Sandy, and Lance and Kris, came up from Mount Horeb. And, of course, there were quite a few family and friends from this area. The kids had some great food and a beautiful cake, and we all visited, ate too much and laughed a lot. The highlight of the party was when I misjudged where my chair was and fell on my backside on the floor. I didn't hurt anything except my pride. It was really scary though, because when you are to the point of no return, you suddenly realize what is about to happen. Anyway, I hope everyone knows how much I appreciate their setting aside a little time for me on my special day.

There was a birthday party that day for Tinille Lehmann too. Hers was held at West Point Resort in rural Spooner and she had lots of friends and relatives from this area, southern Wisconsin and Minnesota there. One of the resorts were having fireworks that evening so everyone was able to sit on the beach and watch the display. We all had a wonderful time celebrating with Tinille and wish her many, many more happy birthdays.

On Sunday morning a bunch of us got together for breakfast at Perkins in Rice Lake before the Hook family started back home. We had such a nice time relaxing, eating and visiting. When the family gets together there is way too much laughter, but it didn't seem to bother the other diners, thank heaven. I told the Mount Horeb group that the next time they come up they can stay in the tree house.

The fireworks in Shell Lake on Wednesday were spectacular, as usual. Duane was one of the thousands of people enjoying the spectacle, and he was amazed that someone could design an explosive that would come out shaped like a heart and one that was shaped like a happy face. He was really lucky that night, he got a parking place about a quarter of a block from the Scoop and Brew, and there was a place to sit and enjoy the fireworks with other relatives and friends right by the ice cream shop. He said that Pat and her crew were extremely busy that evening making ice cream treats. The line was snaked all around the inside of the shop, and Duane said that everyone was very patient waiting their turn.

I went to see the fireworks on Long Lake that evening with Jim, Summer and Wrigley Marsh. We four were the only ones on the boat, so we had plenty of room to stretch out and be comfortable while enjoying the display. Wrig was so much fun to watch with. He's almost seven years old and was in awe of both the noise and the sights. On the way back to the cabin he couldn't stop talking about it. He said, "I'm going to dream of fireworks all night." And "I can't stop smiling, when I try to un-smile, my face hurts." I love that child. Children are so great. Everything is awesome and amazing to them.

Olivia had taken a bunch of friends out on the pontoon to see the fireworks. Well, the DNR was out in force, as you can imagine, and she was stopped twice. Nothing was out of order, but they were randomly checking boats for life jackets and stuff and didn't realize that they had already stopped her once. The first time I think she was a little nervous, but the second time she told them that they had already searched the pontoon. It sounded like she and her friends had a lot of fun.

As you probably know, Terry Goodrich had to have surgery on his shoulder earlier this year. And, like everyone else in the boat, Terry had to do physical therapy for a few months afterward. Terry always says that he is a shy and retiring type, but we all know how much he likes to visit with others, and just because he was doing therapy, he wasn't going to sit quietly while others were present. One day he started a conversation with an older farmer and asked him about all kinds of things. When Terry asked him how he knew when it was warm enough to plant crops in the the spring, the farmer told him that he just drops his pants and sits on the ground. If the ground is too cold to sit on, it's too cold to plant crops. Well-I've known lots of farmers, but that's a new one on me. Who knows, maybe it works.

That's about all I know from Barronett this week. Hope you had a great 4th of July. See you next time.

BC Phoenix Award Program...

the Phoenix Award Program.

Phoenix Awards are named after a mythical bird that consumed itself in fire and rose renewed from the ashes. This symbol has been adopted by the Barron County Sheriff's Department to recognize those individuals who, through their skills and knowledge, successfully revive an individual known to have been in cardiac arrest.

The prestigious "Phoenix Award" goes to emergency responders and dispatchers who have been involved in calls wherein the patient was clinically dead, was resuscitated by emergency responders, and not only survived, but was able to return home from the hospital.

Phoenix Awards can be coupled with a Citizen's Lifesaving Award, which is designed to recognize citizens of the community who have been involved in a lifesaving effort at an emergency scene.

Award Presentation: Responders receiving the Barron County Phoenix Award shall be presented with a uniform pin and a Certificate of Commendation. This presentation may be made during a Barron County Board Meeting, which is open to the public and members of the media. The patient and family members may also be in attendance if possible. Responders will be asked to attend in their department uniform.

Qualifiers: To qualify as a "life save," the following criteria must be met:

- Patient confirmed as pulseless on-scene by an emergency responder
- CPR initiated by emergency responders
- Patient regained pulse (ROSC)
- Patient recovered from incident and released from the hospital
- Patient must agree to participate in the Phoenix

Free Program to help bring joy to people living with memory problems

The brain-music connection is powerful and real. As we all know from hearing that song associated with a first love or leaving home for good, music is profoundly linked to personal memories. In fact, our brains are hard-wired to connect music with long-term memory. Even for persons living with dementia, music can tap deep emotional recall. For individuals living with Alzheimer's, memory for things—names, places, facts—is compromised, but memories from our teenage years can be well-preserved.

Favorite music or songs associated with important personal events can trigger memory of lyrics and the experience connected to the music. Beloved music often calms chaotic brain activ-

Award Program, with call response information being released in a public setting.

• Or any incident where a responder performs life-saving measures onscene

Program Progress: When a responder is aware that a life-save has occurred in the field, they can contact the Barron County Sheriff's Department – Director of Emergency Services for followup.

NOTE: EMS crews are not allowed to notify the Sheriff's Department of a potential field-save due to HIPAA regulations. Therefore, initial notifications must come from dispatchers, first responders, firefighters, and law enforcement officers.

Once notified, the Emergency Services Director shall coordinate with the patient, on-scene responders, and the receiving hospital to determine if a field life-save has occurred. If confirmed, the Director of Emergency Services shall confirm approval from the patient to recognize the responders and share their story and information in a public setting.

Upon approval by the patient, the Director of Emergency Services or Sheriff shall set a presentation date and invite all parties involved, including field responders that were involved in the call, the patient and family, local news media, in addition to an open invitation to all countywide responders.

We are excited to support this program, and to recognize the responders within our community who dedicate their lives toward making a positive difference in patient outcomes.

For more information on the program contact Mike Judy, Director of Emergency Services Barron County Sheriff's Department, at Michael.Judy@co.barron.wi.us or 715-637-6732.

“FOMO”

By: Pastor Dennis Wright
Northern Lakes Community Church

Heard about “FOMO”? It’s a newer word added to the Oxford Dictionary in 2013, and is an acronym for the phrase: “Fear Of Missing Out.” Social Media and smart phones have significantly added to its rapid development. People have an almost uncontrollable urge to continually check for status updates and messages. They fear missing an opportunity. Starts first thing in the morning, ends last thing at night. Repeats every three to five minutes, becoming a true compulsion formed habit. No one wants to miss out!

The dictionary defines it as: “a persuasive apprehension that others might be having rewarding experiences from which one is absent...characterized by...a desire to stay continually connected with what others are doing.” Most of us have seen a news clip of someone reading their phone message while walking...walking right into a street sign or wall. Some of us can honestly confess, “been there done that...got the sore nose”!

FOMO is real art of our social media world. But what about our spiritual world? Are there any “FOMO’s” in your heart and soul? You know what I mean. They would be those things that are unspoken concerns or covered over fears in the life of our souls. They may have surfaced at a moment God’s Spirit spoke to us using conviction of heart. We knew we should repent and change, but knowing right,we still chose wrong. If that describes your experience, God’s Bible, in I John 1:9 gives direction, “If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.” That’s a spiritual FOMO that leads to the heart clean-up of a messy life and forgiveness. However, there is a spiritual FOMO that leads to hope. It is directly connected to our experiencing God. It is more than knowing or believing the right things. It is experiencing God. You see, we don’t simply believe truths and right things, rather we believe in a Person. We believe in God Himself. Jesus said it this way, “I am the Resurrection and Life, he who believes in Me shall live even if he dies, and everyone who lives and believes in Me shall never die.” John 1:25-26.

Youth Livestock Exhibitors preparing quality meat animals for 2018 Show & Sale

Throughout the county, 4-H and FFA members are working to prepare their quality livestock projects for the 2018 livestock shows and sale at the Barron County Fair, July 18-22. Live animal judging will take place in the covered arena just to the north of the dairy barns on Wednesday, July 18 with Sheep at 3pm, and on Thursday, July 19 with Hogs-at 8:00 am and Beef at 2 pm. The annual highlight of the livestock project will continue with the 54th Annual Junior Livestock Sale on Saturday, July 21, 2018 at 1:30 pm. A total of 95 locally raised meat animals from the beef, sheep and swine projects will be sold to the highest bidder with Paf-fel Auctioneering conducting the sale, and Citizens Community Federal Bank serving as clerks. The sale will take place in the covered show arena with presale announcements starting at 1pm, with the sale to begin at 1:30 pm.

Prior to the sale, livestock exhibitors and their families will host a picnic and reception on Saturday, July 21 at 11:30 a.m. for all past and prospective buyers. This picnic will be held in the track infield, near the Crops Tent. Prospective buyers are invited to visit with the exhibitors and view the exhibits and animals on Saturday morning prior to the picnic. All are welcome to attend, bid and buy! Buyers can be anyone, businesses or individuals, from throughout Barron County and beyond, who are interested in supporting 4-H and FFA youth livestock project members. In addition to purchasing quality, locally produced meat, businesses and individuals will receive recognition and advertisement at the time of purchase with sale announcements, display of company logos at the time of purchase, poster displays above each animal purchased, newspaper ads and advertisement for the following year's sale.

Anyone interested in bidding can register by contacting Steve Sirek, Hog Superintendent, at sjsirek4@gmail.com, or Jason Erb at Citizens Community Federal in Rice Lake at jerb@ccf.us. Bidder registration can also take place on the day of the sale, with bidding numbers and registration available at the sale arena. Questions regarding the livestock project or sale can be directed to any Barron County FFA Advisor, and/or Barron County UW-Extension office at 715-537-6250.

The objective of the livestock project and sale is to provide an incentive for 4-H, FFA and other youths to participate in the livestock project, an educational experience in selecting, raising and showing beef, sheep and swine.

To be eligible for the sale, project members must participate in quality assurance training through the Youth for the Quality Care of Animals program, follow a code of member and producer's code of ethics and satisfy final weight, rate of gain, live grade, and live rank requirements. Of the animals meeting the weight, rate of gain, and grade requirements, the top 30 beef, 40 hogs and 25 lambs are sold. Students may either breed and raise their own animals or select and purchase animals their project animals.

WJMC Radio will carry a presale broadcast on Friday morning, giving information about the beef, swine, and sheep shows and general information about the livestock sale. Sale catalogs will be available on Friday morning at the Fairgrounds, and WJMC will also carry a live broadcast of the sale from the fairgrounds on Saturday.

Animals sold at the sale will be processed at the Almena Meat Company at Almena; The Butcher Shop, Rice Lake; Bob's Processing, and Lotts A Meat, both in Bloomer. Once carcass quality is determined, overall awards are determined based on rate of gain, live rank and carcass merit. The overall winner is the exhibitor with the best ranking in all three areas, and will be announced at the Livestock Carcass Show & Awards Program on Thursday, July 26th, 7:00 pm, at Barron High School.

We look forward to seeing you at the fair!
