Two killed in head-on crash on Hwy. 48

Barron County Sheriff Chris Fitzgerald reported that on Wednesday, June 23, 2021, at 12:09 p.m., the Barron County 911 center received a call of a two vehicle accident on Hwy 48 near 10th St, just east of Cumberland.

Deputies from the Barron County Sheriff's Department along with the Cumberland Police Department, Cumberland Ambulance, Mayo Ambulance, Cumberland Fire Department and Life Link Helicopter responded to the scene.

Initial investigation shows a dump truck was traveling east on Hwy 48 when a car, travelling west, crossed the center line and struck the dump truck. The driver of the dump truck, Vernon Shipley, 61 of Chippewa Falls, was transported to Cumberland Hospital with minor injuries. The driver of the car Damian Weiss, 19 of Turtle Lake, and the passenger Dallas McDowell, 21 of Amery, were both pronounced deceased at the scene.

Hwy 48 was closed for approximately eight hours with the assistance of the Barron County Highway Department.

The cause of the accident remains under investigation by the Barron County Sheriff's Department, the WI State Patrol and Midwest Medical Examiner's Office.

Tragic Accident!

Emergency Personnel on scene at the horrible accident on Wednesday, June 23 on Hwy 48 East of Cumberland which claimed the lives of two people.

Search Warrant Executed!

On Tuesday, June 22, at 4pm the Barron/Rusk Emergency Response Team served a search warrant at 1215 Island Ave in Cumberland. Justin Jansen was not home at the time but was later taken into custody without incident on charges of possession of child pornography. This was a joint investigation with the Barron County Sheriff Department and the Wisconsin Department of Justice-Department of Criminal Investigation.

Cumberland Man Charged with Possession of Child Pornography

Justin B. Jansen, 42, of Cumberland, has been charged with five counts of possession of child pornography.

On Thursday, April 1, 2021, at 8:03 am, Detective Hagen, was assigned a child pornography/exploitation investigation by the Wisconsin Department of Justice. He is part of the Wisconsin Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force, and as such, he is assigned cases involving the sexual exploitation of children from WI DOJ. This particular case was initially reported to the WI DOJ by the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC). The MCMEC is a private, nonprofit organization that serves a nation clearing house and resource for families, victims, private organizations, law enforcement, and the public on issues and cases of missing and sexually exploited children. Referrals from the NCMEC go to the WI DOJ in the form of a Cyber Tip line report. The NCMEC operates the Cyber Tip line of children online. NCMEC makes information submitted to the Cyber Tip line available to law enforcement, and the public in a combined effort to reduce distribution and circulation of online images of the sexual abuse and exploitation of children. In other words, the NCMEC takes reports from internet service providers (such as Google, Microsoft, or social media platforms for example) that pertain to suspected images of the sexual exploitation of children, and then the NCMEC will forward the report to law enforcement in the form of the Cyber Tip line report.

When Detective Hagen was assigned to this case, he also received the image in question. He viewed the image, and it was a photograph of a girl estimated to be between five and seven years old, and an adult male with her.

The IP address was determined to be an IP address registered to Charter Communications. On March

Cumberland Police Chief Rick Rieper To Retire

The phrase "all good things must come to an end" rings very true for Cumberland as we say "goodbye" to Cumberland's Police Chief Rick Rieper on his retirement.

Rick took on the job of Cumberland Police Chief in August of 2014 upon the retirement of former Chief Steve Linton. This was actually a return to Cumberland for Rick, who began his law enforcement career here in Cumberland in 1987 before moving on to the Barron County Sheriff's Department in 1995.

Besides his duties as Police Chief, Rick also took on the Zoning Administrator's duties for the City when Keith Hardie retired a few years back. In addition, Rick gave a great deal of his time and efforts to the remodeling work at the Cumberland Senior Center. He was instrumental in the completion of the new kitchen area at the Center.

Rick Rieper...

on his time in Cumberland and what he would miss most. "The people," was his immediate response. "I will miss the day-to-day contact with the community." And his favorite memory? "That's easy," Rick told me "hands down - all the Shop with a Cop events. You can't beat those smiles."

In fact, Rick intends to continue his involvement with the Shop with a Cop program even in retirement. He was loathe to commit to anything more than that and "spending time at my cabin" when asked about his future plans. Rick also holds a seat on the Cumberland School Board, so he will still be around and involved with Cumberland happenings.

Rick feels comfortable retiring because, as he told me, "I feel confident in leaving things in Heather's (our new Police Chief Heather Wolfe) hands." He very enthusiastically endorsed the Council's choice for new Chief saying "I believe she will bring the department to the next level." Rick will continue to mentor Heather as she learns the ropes in her new position.

The City will be hosting a retirement party for Rick on Thursday, July 8th from 1-3:00 p.m. The public is encouraged to come by and wish Rick well as he starts the next chapter of his life. On behalf of the community, we will to thank Rick for his service and wish him only the best for his future.

Northwoods Notebook: What's with all the bears this year? By Larry Werner

It was a quiet afternoon in Serenity Shores, the condo development where we live on Beaver Dam Lake's Rabbit Bay. Ann and I had just lay down – she on the bed and me on the couch – for our afternoon naps when the phone rang.

Ann sprung from the bedroom to tell me, "A bear just walked past Diane George's place."

Diane lives across the drive from us and saw the invader. So she reported it to Ann, a member of the homeowners' association board. So now what do we do?

Being city slickers who moved from the Cities several years back, having never encountered one of these beasts close up, we sneaked out the front door, ready to flee back inside if the bear attacked. As it happened, the bear wandered past the homes of a few other neighbors and headed through backyards along the lake shore.

We learned the next day, he or she had been hanging out on our property for about a week. But now was the time for taking action. So I called the Cumberland Police Department and was told the police don't do bear calls, telling me something even I knew: Don't go near it. And I was given the number of the Department of Natural Resources.

I called and got a recording saying the DNR warden for our area was on vacation, giving me another number for someone in the Eau Claire office, who was covering for our guy, but I got a recording there also. He called the next day to tell me we shouldn't go near the bear, but might want to bang on a pan to scare it away. And, of course, he told me to make sure we take down all bird feeders, which attract bears in search of food.

The Eau Claire DNR guy also told me there are a lot of bears out this summer, perhaps because of the dry weather that has meant food in the woods, such as berries, is scarce. So the bears are wandering into town looking for something to eat.

Almost every day, one of my Facebook friends posts another picture of one of these animals where it's not supposed to be. Here's one on a tree near the high school. Here's another bending over one of those shepherd's poles that held a feeder.

"Cumberland is being overrun by bears," one Facebook poster said.

Right across Rabbit Bay from our house is Rabbit Island, which really isn't an island. We've seen pictures of a mother bear and her cubs on that finger of land that connects with Eagle Point campground.

We told our son, who lives in the Cities, about the bears. He suggests we carry a can of bear spray. That makes more sense than carrying around a sauce pan and a serving spoon for banging on the pan.

I suppose my fear of bears is irrational, perhaps stemming from one day many years ago when my brother and I were playing in a woods behind our home. Someone had given my parents a bear skin rug, and the old man thought it would be funny to drape it over his head and scare his boys.

For the rest of his days, Dad loved telling the story of Don and Larry running from the bear as he growled running after them.

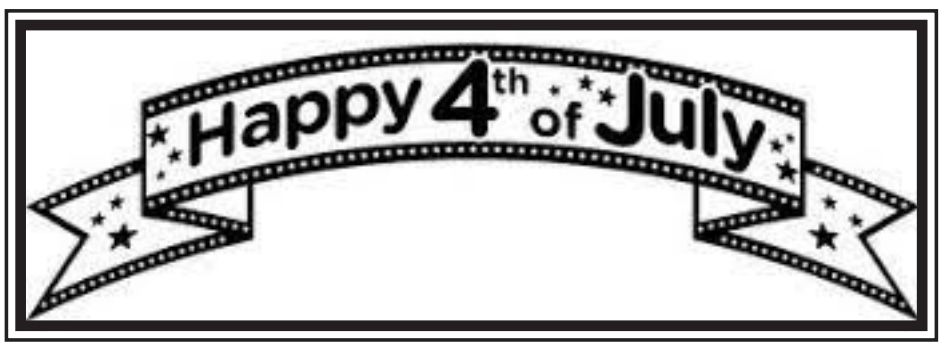

I can't count the number of times I've read that, "Bears are more afraid of you than you are of them."

I don't think so.

Opinion

By Craig Bucher

As I get older and become less active, I find I spend more time reading and more time watching television. I enjoy my books and I also really enjoy watching baseball on television. I am happy the baseball season lasts into the fall. I do not enjoy the number of commercials that take up a lot of time during the various programs I watch. I recognize the need to pay for the programing and like all viewers, I put up with the barkers as they pitch the various products. However, I am bothered by one type of commercial, the new "drug" everyone is asked to talk to a physician about. Everyone of these new drugs comes with disclaimers, a proverbial mile long and almost always ends with the announcement that, in rare cases, taking the drug may result in death. I go to the doctor when I am ill and I trust his or her analysis of my situation and proscribed course of treatment. If I am not satisfied I can get a second opinion. It seems to me that suggesting a particular drug is playing doctor and I certainly am not a doctor. I recognize that a company doesn't spend money on advertising if it is not successful. As I see more and more of these pharmaceutical advertisements on television, I can only conclude that they are successful for the sponsoring company. That is good for the company but I don't believe they are good for the patient. I tune them out..

The Twins are 7-2 in their past nine games and are playing better baseball. Are they to far back to make a run at a playoff berth? The next week should answer the question. Seven games with the first place White Sox will tell the tale. Meanwhile, the Brewers are motoring right along. Three excellent starting pitchers and a dominant back end of the bull pen make them a team nobody will want to play come playoff time.

In rush to rein in tech's 'Big Four,' don't hurt young companies

By Tom Still

MADISON, WI: "Big Tech" has gone from hero to villain in the minds of many in a matter of a few years, and not for irrational reasons. Data privacy concerns, "big brotherism," hate speech and perceived censorship on social media platforms are all part of the mix.

You know it has reached a flash point when antipathy toward Big Tech has got Republicans and Democrats working together.

In their zeal to pass anti-trust legislation aimed at the likes of Apple, Google, Facebook and Amazon, policymakers in Washington should be careful not to make life even more difficult for emerging tech companies.

Unintended consequences are emerging in the Platform Competition and Opportunity Act of 2021, the anti-trust bill that cleared the House Judiciary Committee June 23 on a bipartisan vote. Because the bill bars company acquisitions by online firms with huge numbers of monthly users, major annual sales or market capitalization above $600 billion, critics are warning of a trickle-down effect on young companies.

"For entrepreneurs, an acquisition of their company is the most likely liquidity opportunity and is necessary to make startup investment attractive relative to other asset classes…," wrote Bobby Franklin, head of the National Venture Capital Association, in a June 21 letter to Congress. "Barring acquisitions of companies by select acquirers would close the door to this opportunity for many startups, depressing the economics of startup investment and therefore creating a significant disincentive for new company formation, job creation and innovation in our country."

Young companies backed by angel or venture capital have three pathways: Becoming a stand-alone company, perhaps through an "initial public offering" if they're ambitious about growth; merger or acquisition; or going out of business. Because IPOs are not easy and don't often happen (in part because of past congressional "reform"), merger or acquisition are the successful routes most often followed.

Over the past 10 years, the ratio of acquisitions to IPOs is about 13 to 1 for venture-backed companies.

Investors in such companies don't want possible acquirers to be eliminated, regardless of size, and many entrepreneurs also worry about what that means for their long-term plans.

"Many entrepreneurs and investors begin the company-building process with the hope of creating a stand-alone, public company," Franklin wrote. "However, in most cases, an IPO is not possible and the only available exit opportunity becomes an acquisition by another company."

The economics are tied to supply and demand: Fewer potential acquirers can mean a lower sales price for the company due to fewer bidders, which means lower returns for the entrepreneurs and the investors alike.

Franklin said the bill, if passed in its current form, would especially hurt young companies in emerging hubs of venture-backed firms and not just those in traditional clusters such as California's Silicon Valley. That is a good reason for members of Wisconsin's congressional delegation, as well as others in the Midwest, to be wary of the bill.

"In recent years, startup and venture capital activity has seen impressive growth off the coasts, thereby spreading entrepreneurial activity into new pockets of the country," Franklin wrote. "But because companies in these regions do not tend to grow large enough to go (public), acquisitions are the far more common exit opportunity. (House Resolution) 3826 would endanger the recent growth in emerging ecosystems by closing off potential acquirers of startups."

Acquisitions of Wisconsin startups over time have kept many of those companies and core teams in place and introduced larger players to the state, such as Roche, Johnson & Johnson, Merck and others. It can work the other way, as well, with Wisconsin startups moving elsewhere, but even when that happens those founders usually remain in the state – with money to reinvest in their next venture.

Of course, Franklin and the NVCA have a vested interest in not seeing potential acquirers of venture-backed companies blacklisted. That doesn't change the fact that market economics can be easily upset by legislation that doesn't recognize the risk to small companies downstream to Big Tech.

For sins real and imagined, Big Tech has found itself in the crosshairs of many members of Congress. Lawmakers should be careful not to include start-ups in the target.

Congrats to Cumberland's Kids

To The Editor:

I am very proud to be a lifelong resident (70 years) of Cumberland. What a great place to work and raise a family. My wife and I have been watching a lot of girls' softball this Spring and early Summer. We have seven grandchildren living here in Cumberland, four of whom are granddaughters between the ages of 12 and 17 and they all play on different Cumberland High School and Middle School softball teams. We feel blessed to be able to watch them all play, especially since the softball season last year was cancelled because of COVID.

One thing that keeps going through my mind as I interact with the 5 or 6 oldest grandkids, is how well they have adapted to the changes and sacrifices that were asked of them during these past 15 or so months. It seems to me that these adaptations have made them stronger and more resilient young people. Along the way, they have developed a greater sense of appreciation for being able to go about a now normal life and they also seem to understand that it's best not to take anything for granted. In other words, if you tee-up the outcomes (in the right light) for boys and girls during the past year, they are definitely better young people for it.

My parents were youngsters during the Great Depression and my grandparents, of course, were raising their families then. In talking with them as I grew up, it became very clear to me that those two generations had no time to whine and complain about their situations and instead of that they developed a real knack of using extreme sacrifices and the ability to pull together for a common cause to build character which then served them well throughout the rest of their days.

A Look Back

C.W. Jerry Catches the Old Gray Devil

The largest brush wolf in this neck of the woods has been captured at last by C.W. Jerry. Many a trap this old boy has gone around and many a bullet he dodged.

Judging by his teeth, some long, some short, and some of them rotted, he was at least 17 years old. He seem to run a beat west of Cumberland, by Little Sand and the banks of Beaver Dam, East to the hogback, West of August Thede's, then past the old Alexander Place, and on North and West to Elmer Loverude's place and then again to Little Sand Lake. The Indian's chased him with rifles and traps, white men chased him for years past, but he hasn't made any track on the old hogback for the past week, so we know the old boy got caught at last.

Take off your hats to old C.W. Jerry, that he sure throws a wicked trap.

We started pre-kindergarten in 1944 when we were 4 years old. Our teacher, Helen Adams, who became known as Missy, came the second semester and we had her the whole year of regular kindergarten. She taught many years in Cumberland. In 1961, she was named National Teacher of the Year by President John F. Kennedy. Pictured left to right are: Sally George, John Jacobson, Ethel Ricci, Barbara Rose, Gene Kirk, George DiGideo, Jane Burton, Karen Johnson, Nora Fry, Charlene Christensen, Nancy Thompson, Sandra Bertonasco, Jerry Jenson.

18, 2021, Special Agent in Charge from WI DOJ obtained an administrative subpoena requiring Charter Communications to provide customer/subscriber information for that account using the IP address on January 26, 2021 at 4:25 am local time. On March 26, 2021, Charter Communications subsequently returned that information to WI DOJ. Charter Communications records indicate the customer/subscriber for the IP address on the date and time indicated is a female who resides in Cumberland.

On June 22, 2021, Barron County Detective Hagen obtained a search warrant for the residence of the female. The warrant was executed on the same date. Prior to the execution of the search warrant, Detective Hagen had contact with the female. During the course of his contact with the female, Detective Hagen provided her with a copy of the search warrant and advised her that he believed her internet was used to obtain child pornography. He further inquired of her if she has internet and wi-fi at her home, which she confirmed. He also confirmed with her that her wi-fi was secured with a password.

During the course of the execution of the search warrant, Detective Hagen asked the female about the living situation of the residence. She advised that only her and her son, Justin Jansen lived there.

Detective Hagen was aware that Digital Forensic Specialist Stofferahn from the Wisconsin Department of Justice was on scene to conduct a preliminary analysis of any digital computer and electronic evidence that may be found in the residence. That evidence included not only the female's cell phone, a Sony Playstation that was located in Jansen's bedroom, along with an external hard drive that was also located in the bedroom identified as his.

Detective Hagen was advised by Specialist Stofferahn that when the hard drive as previewed, Mr. Stofferahn located approximately 539 images, approximately 400 of which were suspected child pornography. Detective Hagen was advised that the hard drive was located in the bedroom that was determined to be Jansen's. He advised it was inside of a computer bag that was on the floor in front of the night stand which was next to the bed. It was the only item in his computer bag, aside from an apple iPhone charging cable. Detective Hagen was also aware that there were numerous documents located in this room that had Jansen's name on them, including papers from the Navy that were in a dresser drawer, along with other drawers that contained men's clothing. There were also several forms of identification on the top of a dresser in Jansen's name. There was mail and other documents addressed to him on the night stand directly above the computer bag containing the hard drive. Detective Hagen also noted that the room appeared to be lived in, as he was somewhat messy and organized. He also noted the PlayStation gaming system was hooked up to a television and it was turned on. He also advised the PlayStation was examined by Mr. Stofferahn and there were not any suspected images that were located on it.

Detective Hagen's report indicates that he viewed the images on the hard drive after returning to the Sheriff's Department. Of the 400 images of suspected child pornography, most involved prepubescent females, several which were toddler age. Very small minority involved pubescent age females. Approximately 278 of the images involved the girls posing in some fashion.

Detective Hagen's report indicates that on June 22, 2021, he conducted an interview of Jansen which also included the female. During the course of the interview, Detective Hagen explained the execution of the search warrant for child pornography. When he asked Mr. Jansen if he an explanation as to why there would be child pornography on any of his devices in the residence, Jansen claimed he had no idea he was in possession of child pornography and he had nothing to do with obtaining it or otherwise acquiring it. When Detective Hagen asked him about the external hard drive that was found in his room, Jansen acknowledged owning the hard drive, but stated he had no idea how long he had owned it. Jansen indicated he had possessed the hard drive for more than four years because he had it when he was in the military. He recalled that it just appeared on his bed when he was on a ship in the Navy. He stated someone left it there, but he didn't know who and since no one claimed it, he kept it. When Detective Hagen asked him if he ever used the hard drive, his response was that if he did, he couldn't remember the last time he would have used it. He also stated he couldn't remember where he kept it in his room because it had been so long since he had seen it. He also stated that all he could be certain about was that he had not used it within at least one year.

Detective Hagen's report indicates he explained to Jansen the hard drive contained over 400 images of child pornography, which both Jansen and the female expressed disbelief. The female went as far to say that Jansen was being framed. Detective Hagen further informed Jansen that a digital forensic specialist was examining the hard drive and could tell that the hard drive had been used numerous times in the last several months, and as recently as approximately two weeks ago. The female then stated that perhaps the hard drive was accessed two weeks ago for something other than illegal purposes. Detective Hagen advised her that it did not appear to be the case because the images of child pornography were accessed as recently as approximately two weeks prior. Jansen still claimed that he had no knowledge, nor did he have any part in obtaining child pornography. Detective Hagen asked him if he ever used any type of file sharing software or application on his computer, to which he replied, "not that I am aware of."

During the remainder of the interview, the female continued to maintain that her son was being set up. Despite what Detective Hagen pointed out to her, that someone would have had to come into their house and use their internet without either of them knowing it, along with knowing the password to their wi-fi. He also pointed out that someone would have to know Jansen had a hard drive, where it was located and then use their internet access to download the child pornography onto his hard drive and then do this on multiple occasions throughout the last several months. When asked both the female and Jansen if they could think of anybody who would do this, he could not provide a name. The female then suggested that perhaps his ex-wife was involved in this. Detective Hagen had to explain that his ex-wife would have to make several trips from the State of Maine over the last several months, sneak into their house, know the password to access the internet and download images of child pornography on numerous occasions. The female then claimed that Jansen's ex-wife may have friends in the area that could do it for her. Detective Hagen pointed out that his ex-wife is not from the area and never lived there. Detective Hagen also pointed out that while executing the search warrant, he noticed they had a security camera. When he asked him if they have any videos of intruders coming and going from the residence, they stated that their cameras are live view only and do not record. Further, they did not offer any indication that they ever observed anyone entering the residence without their knowledge.

If convicted for five counts of child pornography, he may be fined not more than $100,000 for each count, or imprisoned not more than 25 years for each count or both. His preliminary hearing is scheduled for August 26, 2021.

The Perfect Snag

Hello friends,

I have had a ton on my mind and schedule lately as well as a nagging injury, so I came up with the idea of bringing my golden retriever Ruby to an island on the Mississippi River via my 16-foot canoe and doing a whole bunch of nothing for three days.

Monday, June 21st

High 78, low 53

Black Hawk Park is managed by the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers and is south of Genoa on the Mississippi about five miles. Back in the 80's I used to camp here and was a backwater fishing machine a good 8-weekends a year.

Today it would be Ruby and me, and I had no idea where I was going to paddle to other than to just get away. Other than camping gear, I also had fishing equipment for panfish as well as paddle trolling for walleye and northern pike.

I hit the main channel and then touched into some backwaters and just like that my trip changed. I found a downed cottonwood tree that was in the river and had several other trees with it. High water from like 2018 to 2020 had flooded most of the islands and killed literally thousands of trees if not hundreds of thousands of trees for at least 200 miles.

The loss of the trees will be very bad for the islands as they literally are the glue that holds them together. On the other hand, deadfalls in the river that are in deep enough water are fish magnets.

So, it's 3:00, I decide to paddle right into the deadfall, tie off my canoe and try vertical jigging with light jigs and just like that I catch a 9-inch gill. All common sense left my brain, I had not even thought of building camp or unloading and I fished until just before dark and had a dozen dandies when I started building camp.

Tuesday, June 22nd

High 81, low 54

So I forgot my stringer again, and last night put my entire catch in my net in a tree limb that allowed my fish to be in the water. The tracks in the sand told the story, a small, probably female bobcat had flipped the net and my fish were gone.

I paddled to the snag and fished hard for 7 hours working several snags actually and only kept 4 gills and a perch.

Let me tell you about my dog Ruby, she has been bred for just over three weeks and is growing quite rapidly. Ruby spends her day at camp and watches me as most of my fishing is 30 yards away. Ruby is rapidly becoming one of the best goldens that I have ever had, and I got my first one in '81.

So, this afternoon I tried a different spot on the snag. It can be pure insanity in a good way. All fishing is done by dropping my jig straight down and jigging. At least 20 times on this three-day adventure I hooked into very large fish that simply cut my line or wrapped it onto a branch and broke it.

Tonight about 7:00 the fish bite turned on and it was incredible. I would catch two big gills and then have a big, toothy critter cut my line, then I would catch an 11-inch crappie. I was simply having a blast.

Well before dark I paddled to shore, started a campfire, and filleted fish. While filleting, the ugliest raccoon that I have ever seen strolls into camp and Ruby wants to fight. I had her stay and let me tell you, this coon wanted to fight as well.

At 11:00 I was about to hit the sack/sand and the coon came back. I did my best to make it feel unwelcome and slept like a baby.

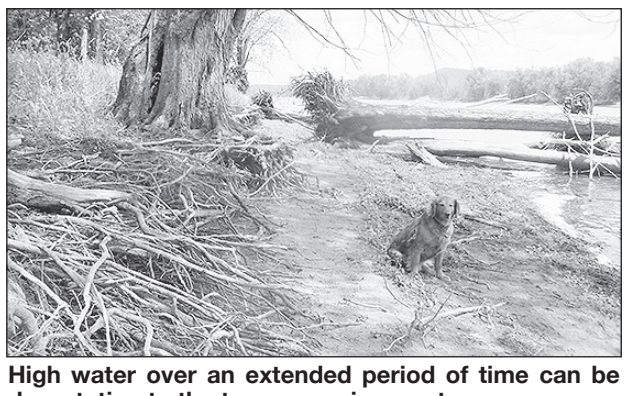

The next morning, I caught one of the nicest catches of bluegill and crappie that I have ever caught out of a canoe, broke camp and headed home.

My plan of laying around and resting did not materialize but I had a great time and actually did not even want to go home.

Puppies for sale, maybe! Sunset

This gill was fun to catch.

Tim Heffernan: Cumberland Athletic Hall of Fame Inductee

by Mark R. Fuller

Joining the Cumberland Athletic Hall of Fame in the Contributor category on August 21 is Tim Heffernan. Tim will join previous inductees in that category, Clarence Capra, Carl Bents, and Don Clark, each of whom did much behind the scenes to promote and share their love of sports and the Cumberland athlete.

Tim graduated from Cumberland High School in 1950 and his enjoyment of photography led him to take many of the pictures that appeared in that spring's yearbook. Tim was very involved during his time in school, playing football, participating in the class play, and being an active member of FFA.

Following graduation, he joined the State Patrol where he would serve as a patrolman for 36 years, before retiring in 1993. Always active in the community, Tim was involved in 4-H, Snowmobile Safety, the St. Anthony Parish Council, and served on the Cumberland School Board for fifteen years.

His involvement in FFA in high school also led him to become active with the Barron County Fair. Heffernan would become a driving force in the Fair for over 30 years, including 20 years as its Manager. He also became involved at the State level, serving eight years on the Board of Directors for the State Association of Fairs, eventually holding the position of President.

While doing all this, one of his favorite passions was working as an announcer for the school basketball and wrestling games. It started in 1982, when then Athletic Director Roger Wistrcill approached him about doing the girl's basketball contest. By 1987, Tim was also announcing the boys games and eventually would do some of the wrestling meets. He did this all without taking a penny of pay. He took the job because he loved the kids and helping his alma mater's athletic programs.

Tim continued these announcing jobs for the next 33 years as a consistent figure behind the scorer's table. His wife Carole would say, "He looked forward to every night he announced a Cumberland game."

Unfortunately, Tim is no longer with us. We are looking forward, however, in joining his family in saying thanks one more time for the "Voice of Cumberland Athletics" for over 30 years. This will take place at the Das Lach Haus on August 21. Tickets may be purchased by contacting Mark Fuller at 715-790-0109 or by email at mfull@csdmail.com.

WIDNR: Wisconsin Ruffed Grouse Survey Shows Decrease In Breeding Grouse

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced the results of its annual ruffed grouse surveys. Roadside ruffed grouse surveys completed this spring showed statewide drumming activity decreased 6% between 2019 and 2021; no data was collected in 2020 due to Covid-19 restrictions.

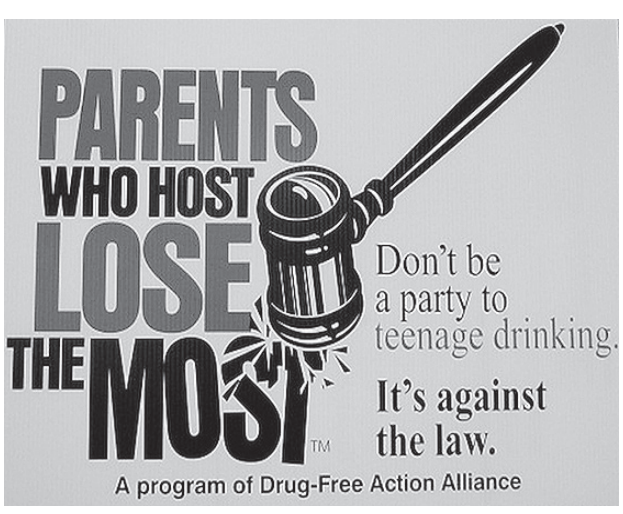

Ruffed grouse typically follow a ten-year population cycle with cyclic highs occurring in years that end in 9, 0 or 1. It is likely that during this cycle, the grouse population peaked in 2019 or 2020 and it is likely that abundance will begin to decrease in the coming years as we enter the "down phase" of the cycle.

The surveys found there was a 33% increase in drumming in the Driftless priority area, while the central priority area had no change. The northern priority area saw a 7% decrease in the number of drums per stop from 2019 levels.

Drumming is a practice performed by male ruffed grouse, typically during mating season. During the ritual, males beat their wings slowly at first then rapidly to create a deep, thumping sound. The display usually lasts 5-10 seconds, during which the wings can beat approximately 50 times. Surveyors listen to this sound to identify and count male ruffed grouse each spring during the mating season.

"Ruffed grouse rely on dense, young forest cover resulting from disturbances such as fire and logging. Beyond actively managing state-owned lands, the Wisconsin DNR is working to provide suitable grouse habitat through an extensive collaborative effort known as the Wisconsin Young Forest Partnership," said Alaina Gerrits, DNR Assistant Upland Wildlife Ecologist. "This partnership provides technical and financial assistance for young forest management on private lands, benefitting ruffed grouse and other wildlife species by helping maintain healthy and diverse forest communities."

Roadside surveys to monitor the number of breeding grouse have been conducted by staff from the DNR, U.S. Forest Service, tribal employees and numerous grouse enthusiasts and volunteers since 1964.

I think that my parents and grandparents would truly approve of how the sacrifices which our children and grandchildren today have endured during the past year have left them with a similar understanding of how working through adversity has allowed them to better deal with the dips and doodles which are sure to be a part of growing through life.

That said, I'd like to offer a sincere congratulations to the youngsters growing up right now in Cumberland for navigating their way through this past inconvenient year and for using their newly gained experiences to learn the benefits of working together as a community and supporting each other during difficult times.

Climate change drives migration

To the Editor:

In his opening remarks to the security panel at the April 22 Leaders Summit on Climate, U.S. Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin stated:

"Today, no nation can find lasting security without addressing the climate crisis. ... (R)ising temperatures and more frequent and intense extreme weather events in Africa and Central America threaten millions with drought, hunger, and displacement. As families risk their lives in search of safety and security, mass migration leaves them vulnerable to exploitation and radicalization, all of which undermine stability."

Iraqi Defense Minister Jumaa Enad, a member of the security panel, explained how climate impacts endanger his nation. He asserted that higher temperatures and water scarcity force many Iraqis to leave their agricultural lands and has led to spikes in youth unemployment, which drive them toward violence and terrorism. According to Enad: "Citizens who lack the economic opportunities remain easy prey for Daesh (Islamic State)."

Closer to home, in Central America, warming oceans are damaging coral reefs and fisheries, while severe drought is causing families to abandon their farms. To quote climate scientist Edwin Castellanos of the Universidad del Valle de Guatemala: "Extreme poverty may be the primary reason people leave. But climate change is intensifying all the existing factors."

Many of the consequences of our carbon dioxide emissions were foreseen. In a 1977 presentation to Exxon management on the greenhouse effect, company science advisor J.F. Black warned that warming the planet would be likely to affect the distribution of the world's rainfall. According to Black, "Some countries would benefit, but others could have their agricultural output reduced or destroyed."

And in a 2012 interview, then Exxon CEO Rex Tillerson claimed: "Changes to weather patterns that move crop production areas around -- we'll adapt to that."

However, when people leave a place that global warming is rendering uninhabitable, moving is their adaptation. Yet desperate migrants are often demonized for this.

In light of partisan differences on including climate provisions in the infrastructure bill, and with high profile visits to the southern border, the United States stands at a crossroads. As the greatest cumulative emitter, what role will our nation play in helping to heal our increasingly hotter and inhospitable world?

Let's heed the closing words of Defense Secretary Austin: "(N)one of us can tackle this problem alone. We share this planet, and shared threats demand shared solutions."

Barronett News

By Judy Pieper

Happy Independence Day!! Isn't it great that, this year, we will, once again, be able to join in the celebration with all our friends, neighbors and relatives? I wonder how long it will be before we will start taking this freedom to gather for granted again. I think it will be a long time – To paraphrase President Franklin Roosevelt, 2020 is a year that will live in infamy.

Lois Nickell's son, Jim, traveled from his home in Palm Springs, California to visit for a couple weeks. He came to celebrate Lois' birthday on the 14th of June, and stayed long enough to celebrate his birthday, which is on the 27th, but they celebrated on the 24th because he had to leave for home on the 25th. While he was here, he visited with lots of family members and neighbors. Lois' deck is quite the gathering place, and there was almost always someone sitting there visiting with Lois and Jim.

Dorothy Orth's daughter, Kelly, and granddaughter, Lily, traveled up from Arizona to visit with her for a couple weeks. They have been doing lots of fun things, visiting with their aunt, Geri Pittman, and doing some sightseeing. They stopped at the Scoop and Brew for ice cream cones and went to Hilltop Retreat for supper twice.

Geri Pittman and I have birthdays exactly a week apart, hers is on the 21st of June and mine is on the 28th. To celebrate we decided to choose a date between the two. We chose Friday the 25th. We went to Hilltop Retreat with Dorothy, Kelly and Lily and had a fantastic time visiting and enjoying the delicious food prepared by Justin, Casey and crew. Duane and I hadn't seen Kelly and Lily for quite a while, and we enjoyed catching up on their news. Kelly's son, Connor, is now a police officer in Phoenix. That is so unbelievable – The last time we saw him he was probably twelve years old. Anyway, Geri and I exchanged silly cards, and we really enjoyed ourselves.

Debbie Arnes and Mike Forster had some good news to share on Sunday morning. Their son, Michael Forster, who had obtained the rank of master sergeant in the Air Force, has finished his Officer Training course in Montgomery, Alabama, and is now a second lieutenant. He will, in the very near future, be training to be a pilot. Our congratulations go out to Michael on his achievement, and we wish him a long and successful career.

Jenna Jackson and Bob and Sue Russell hosted a graduation party for Jenna's son, Hunter Walton, at Bob and Sue's home on Saturday. There were lots and lots of well-wishers congratulating Hunter and enjoying visiting and eating the delicious food provided.

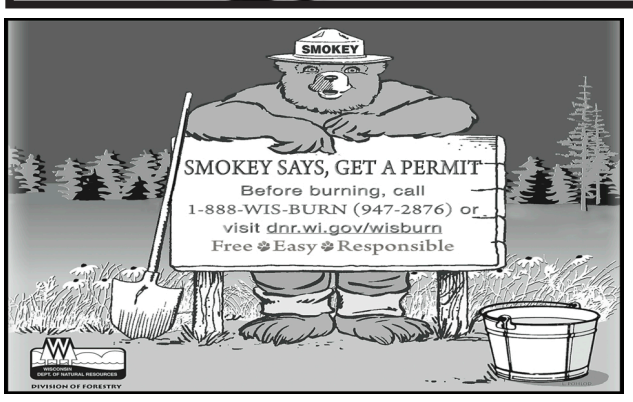

Brad Parnell and Alyse Lehmann hosted a graduation party for Brad's son, Ian, on Saturday evening at their home in Somerset. There were lots of people there congratulating Ian, and way too much Mexican food. (I love Mexican food, and I'm afraid I may have made an oinker of myself.) After supper Brad's band, Sunday's Regret, entertained the crowd. Duane and I, along with everyone else there, had a wonderful time – But we didn't get home until after nine p.m. which is pretty late for old-timers like us.

And, that was not good because we had a message from Anitia Lehmann asking me to call her. Well, I thought that it was too late to call, so I was going to call her the next morning. In the morning I slept late and was frantically getting ready for church and completely forgot to return Anitia's call. Darn it!! She was calling to see if we wanted to go to the church service at the Wiesner Chapel at Hungry Hollow that morning. We completely forgot about the steam engine show there this past weekend and the service at the Chapel. (We are getting way too old.) We go to that show every year (can't say that anymore) and Duane especially wanted to go to see what Bob Russell would be making in the blacksmith shop. Maybe next year I'll paste a note on the microwave door (we use that about ten times a day) so we won't forget.

Lynn Thon and Jamie and Kurt Anderson took the kids, Kane and Pierce Thon, Kaitlynn and Jessica Holmen and Alex Anderson to the park on Silver Lake to relax and cool down on Sunday afternoon. After about an hour and a half of splashing and swimming in the lake, they all went back to Jamie and Kurt's home for supper.

This has been a very busy week, and next week will probably be even better with visits from friends and family over the 4th. I hope you have a wonderful week and a great 4th. I'll see you next time.

Senior Center Happenings

By David Husby
President, Cumberland Area Senior Citizens Center

On Monday, June 21, 2021, the Senior Center began serving congregate meals again. ADRC has hired a new site manager for Cumberland and she started on the same day. Come on down and meet Linda Strenke. Linda will most likely need some help in the kitchen so if you are so inclined please stop by and talk with Linda. Most likely this will be volunteer labor for a couple of hours whenever you can work but talk with Linda and she can fill you in on the particulars. Even if you don't want to volunteer, come join us for a nice hot meal at about 11:00 AM Monday through Friday. Who knows you may decide to stay and get involved.

With the opening of the kitchen and so far a rather nice participation at lunch time maybe we can get the center open for more activities. Card games are starting to pick up so if you like cards come to the Center, eat lunch, and then play cards. Games include 500, pinochle, bridge, smear, and cribbage. If you want a different game such as euchre bring some friends and start the game; we have the room.

Life On The Family Farm Under An Open Heaven

By: Tom Heck

Riding The Munitions Train

My dad, Earl Heck, was born and raised on a small farm in Wisconsin. There, his parents taught him hard work and responsibility. As a boy, things were hard, since the country was in the Great Depression. The family worked very hard to put food on the table, put clothes on their backs, wood in the stove and to pay the bills. But they were greatly blessed, since they lived in America, the land of freedom, a nation under God.

WWII came and my dad was on the young side to go to war, however, as the war was getting close to being over, my dad got put on the short list of having to report at a moment's notice. Well, the war ended, and he didn't have to report.

But, then came the Korean War, and he got drafted by the army. He went through boot camp, and while there, the leadership found out that he was very good at mechanics. So, after boot camp, they sent him to another camp for several weeks to teach him mechanics. They put him in a group of men called the Engineering Maintenance Aviation Company (EMAC). Once they got their time in there, they shipped them out to Korea.

And what can I say, if he would have landed on the moon, it wouldn't have been as shocking as Korea. What did he find there you ask? A land totally bombed out. So many people half starving to death. So many people who only had a few rags for clothing. And orphans by the thousands. What he had growing up in the Great Depression was exceedingly great compared to what these people had. He couldn't even find one nice standing tree in the area where he was stationed.

He was stationed at K 13. That is Korea Airstrip number 13. At that time it was the largest airstrip in the world, he said. It was used 100% for our aircraft for fighting the war. When the war was raging, the jet fighters would be taking off literally all day and all night.

It took a lot of earth-moving equipment to keep the airstrip up and running. And equipment they had, acres and acres of it. All left over from WWII in the Pacific. When the Korean War broke out, our government gathered up all that left over equipment and moved it to Korea.

The job of the EMAC was to keep this equipment up and running so that they could continually keep the airstrip in excellent shape for the planes. And they did this very well. How? By taking parts off of the acres and acres of junked out equipment left over from WWII.

But, they got a couple of other jobs once-in-a-while that they didn't like. When the fighting got really bad, the planes would fly around the clock. So many of the planes then would come in shot up badly, and sometimes the pilots would too. At these times the airplane mechanics couldn't keep up with fixing the planes. The orders were, "Get those planes back in the air as fast as possible." At those times they would pull the EMAC off of the earth-moving equipment and onto the planes.

Their orders: "Get those planes back in the air as fast as

"How you treat each other matters"

by Rev. Diane House,
Trinity Lutheran in McKinley

Jesus called the disciples and said to them, "You know that among the Gentiles those whom they recognize as their rulers lord it over them, and their great ones are tyrants over them. But it is not so among you; but whoever wishes to become great among you must be your servant, and whoever wishes to be first among you must be slave of all. For the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Mark 10: 42-45

Before I went to seminary and studied to be ordained as a minister, I worked in customer service. Reading these words of Jesus once again highlighted the basic customer service principle "the customer is always right." While that motto encourages the customer service clerk to remember that providing friendly and efficient service is a priority and to treat each customer as a guest, it does not give permission for the customer to act as a "tyrant over" the clerk.

In the same way, Jesus is warning all disciples then and now that how you treat each other matters. In our community it is summer and tourist season. There are many visitors to our area patronizing the local shops and attractions. It is important to be aware of offering good hospitality to all who travel here. It is important to be aware of offering good hospitality and loving care to the many seasonal workers who come to our community, too.

When fall arrives and the tourists return home, let's remember to continue to treat each other with the same kind of caring hospitality we would offer visitors. Jesus came not to be served but to serve. He gave his life in that service to the world. As his disciples it is our calling to follow his humble example as we live, work, and play each day together. May all we do in his name glorify God.

The Cumberland Omaha Railroad Water Tank

by Mark R. Fuller

The history of the railroad in our country created a growth and prosperity that allowed for unprecedented prosperity. Wisconsin railroads date back to 1847 when the Milwaukee & Waukesha Railroad was chartered by Byron Kilbourn to connect Milwaukee with Waukesha. By 1851, one freight train and one passenger train ran to those destinations each day.

On November 17th, 1871, The North Wisconsin Railway Company was organized and authorized to construct a railroad from the St. Croix River to the west end of Lake Superior in Bayfield. Its first segment soon reached New Richmond and by 1874, the rails had reached the Village of Clayton. This news gave Cumberland's first settlers what they needed to build and stay here.

Following a financial delay and stock acquisition by Mr. Jacob Humbird among others, the companies line finally reached Cumberland in 1878. The first train to arrive was greeted by cheers and a special whistle as the first makeshift depot was near where the 5 O'Clock stands today. Soon daily runs from Clayton brought supplies that previously were obtained with trips to Rice Lake or neighboring areas.

With the building of the railroad came the need for a water tank or station. This water stop provided a place where steam trains could stop to replenish its water in the boiler. When a train stopped for water, it was positioned by the water tower as the boilerman swung out the spigot arm over the tender and "jerked" the chain to begin watering.

During the early days of steam locomotives, water stops consumed much travel time. Eventually special cars containing water and fuel made these stops less frequent.

The Omaha responded to this need in Cumberland by putting up a water tank near the depot in 1911. The tank stood 45 feet tall and had a water capacity of 120,000 gallons. It would serve the company for the next 46 years before the landmark was toppled by Omaha contractors in the summer of 1957. They pulled the tower off its base with machine winches and trucks and soon the job of removing the remains was underway.

The structure in Cumberland was thought to be the last of the water tanks along the lines of the Omaha Road. With the coming of diesel and the passing of the streamer, the need for these water tanks no longer existed.

This would be the first of the railroads important existence that gradually disappeared. Train schedules were soon reduced and the tracks and depots would eventually follow. A 1982 Advocate, would finalize the end of the Cumberland railway in an article entitled, "Iron Horse being put out to pasture." It reviewed its "Island City" history and described the ongoing removal of the spikes and rails.

Now only pictures remain of the railroads importance to the city. Just like those of the Water Tank, which towered over the city for 46 important years.

Now, he'll represent the United States on the sport's biggest stage. Congratulations to all!

June School Board...

outside of public meetings. That being the case, if the school board reached a consensus regarding the summer school mask policy, then the school board broke the law to do it because it definitely was not discussed at a public meeting. Not that any of this matters to you. After all, you're just trying to do the right thing, right? While the stakes here might not be as high, it is important to recognize that the worst atrocities in human history have occurred when a group of people think they are so morally virtuous that their actions are justified no matter what."

Chad Owens took the floor next. He spoke from notes, not a written statement. He admitted frustration that the topics he and others are bringing to the Board haven't made it to the agenda. He hasn't heard discussion on any of the questions people have been bringing to the meetings and would like some of their questions to be discussed by the Board at the meetings. "We're not getting answers. The Board seems to be circling the wagons to shut us down." He wants answers as to what the board is planning for policies on masks and vaccines for the new year, and "when is the public going to hear the board discuss these issues." He also said he needed these answers now because he has to decide whether or not to "home school his kids."

Last to speak was Nicole Hile. She had a list of questions for the board, beginning with "Will we be having discussions this evening? If not, when? Why?" She remarked that "In the past few months I've watched several different school districts have their board meetings and we seem to be one of the only ones that doesn't allow for any discussion." She wanted to know "How is the board made aware and able to discuss with the public any concerns from staff, students, and parents if we aren't allowed any open discussions? Or limited to three minutes? How can you make policies without addressing these concerns? How do we get answers to these questions?" She, too, wanted to know what the District policies regarding masks and vaccinations for the upcoming year will be and when parents, staff, and students will be hearing about the policies. She also asked "How do parents access curriculum and curriculum guidelines? Who makes those decisions and has a final say? What checks and balances are in place for setting forth policies regarding curriculum and health mitigation policies and efforts?" And "How do people find out information regarding policy making or be an active part in some form?" In parting, Nicole asked "Will there be an opportunity in a special meeting to have these discussions? Will the people who are unable to have these discussions be willing to resign?"

Moving onto action items, the board approved a slate of resignations and new hires. Approved were Ellwood Ellenson's resignation as 7/8th Grade Teacher; Lisa Roethel's resignation as Speech and Language Pathologist; William McCreary as Middle School Head Football Coach and Middle School Assistant Wrestling Coach; and Mary Miller's resignation as Pep Club Advisor.

Unfortunately for the Wrestling program, the board also approved the resignations of Isaac Lundquist as High School Head Wrestling Coach, and Chad Olson and Joe Rademacher as HS Assistant Wrestling Coaches. HS Principal Narges assured the board that discussions were well underway to fill these spots and they should have things sorted by the next board meeting.

The Board also approved the hirings of Nicole Knutson and Maria Lynch as High School English Teachers; Elsa Severson as Speech and Language Pathologist; and Bridgid Ricci as Elementary School Secretary.

In the discussion section, Elementary School Principal Jim Richie gave a report on the Achievement Gap Reduction (AGR) program. AGR is one of the areas the district is "graded" on by the State in their yearly "report cards." Richie explained that this was a difficult year with many obstacles to overcome in their efforts to close the "gap." One of the main intervention techniques to improve learning was instruction in a "small group" setting which allowed for more individual attention for the students. The social distancing requirements made this unfeasible. Despite this and other challenges imposed by the pandemic, the program has been able to function and work to improve learning and test scores with students who need the additional assistance.

Richie went on to give his administrative report on the end of the school year and Summer School. He specifically wanted to thank the Bus Drivers, custodians, and support staff who worked so very hard to make Summer School run smoothly. He thanked the teachers for a "great job."

Middle School Principal Colin Green also thanked everyone who made Summer School possible. He also gave a "shout out" to the Student Athletes and FFA members and teachers who came out the help at Taste in Cumberland this year. The kids helped with set up and even helped as prep cooks for some of the vendors. They represented the school well.

Narges reported that the 2021 Graduation Exercises were very successful. This year's Graduate of Achievement, Chief Master Sergeant Roger Towberman, gave an inspiring talk about how even "not-so-great students can go on to do great things."

Superintendant Dr. Barry Rose remarked that now that the district has successfully completed the school year of 180 days of regular classes and 3 weeks of Summer School, they can turn their focus to what next year will look like. A task made more interesting by the fact that the State Budget is still in flux so the District is having to make plans without knowing how much money they will have coming in. Rose isn't expecting to have those figures "for a while yet."

The School Board is scheduled to meet again on Monday, July 26th at 6:00 p.m.

Life on the Farm...

possible." So they would fix them up as fast as they could, so that they would fly. They were not fixed as good as they should have been, but they got them so they would fly, and they hoped the pilots would make it back in them alive. But, they had no choice; the men fighting on the ground at the front lines desperately needed them for support. It was literally a matter of life and death for so many men.

The other job the EMAC got sometimes was to ride guard on the munitions trains running up to the front lines to supply our troops with ammunition. They would send the trains up in the black of night so they wouldn't be easy for the enemy to spot and attack. On the back of the railroad cars they would have a platform with a machine gun mounted on it. They would put one or two men on each machine gun to protect the train.

Talk about being a moving target. And if your car load of ammunition gets hit, it'll blow sky high and you along with it. Fortunately, the train never got attacked when my Dad was riding guard on it. And it was cold in the wintertime riding those trains. I remember my Dad saying a number of times that that was the coldest he ever got in his whole life.

My Dad was blessed; he came home from the war alive, in good health. He farmed the rest of his life living to an old age. Others came back wounded and hurt. Many others didn't make it back alive; they paid the ultimate price. They paid the price to keep other people free.

We in our nation today, owe a great debt of gratitude to all of those who have served our country so well. We should never take for granted the great blessings of liberty and freedom that we have in America. They have been bought with a great price. God has blessed us greatly, may we never forget this, and may we live our lives wisely. We owe so much to so many.

WI State Patrol June Law of the Month: Flashing yellow arrow means yield before turning left

A flashing yellow arrow is an increasingly common sight at signalized intersections in Wisconsin. Wisconsin State Statute 346.37 (1) (e) sends a clear signal to drivers: a left turn is permitted, but you must first yield to oncoming traffic and pedestrians.

For safe operation motorists should remember:

• A flashing yellow arrow does NOT give you the right of way. Opposing traffic has a green signal and the right of way

• The flashing yellow arrow means you may proceed with caution.

• A flashing yellow arrow means you may turn in the direction of the arrow or make a U-turn, unless a sign prohibits U-turns, only after yielding to other vehicles and pedestrians. Go only when it is safe and the way is clear.

• The flashing yellow arrow often appears in a four light signal but may also appear in a three light signal that also features:

• A steady green arrow that means a driver has the right-of-way to make a left turn or make a U-turn unless a sign prohibits U-turns.

• A steady yellow arrow that means drivers should be prepared to stop.

• A steady red arrow that means drivers should stop and wait.

The signals may include an adjoining, static sign that reads: "Left turn – yield on flashing yellow arrow."

More information is available on flashing yellow arrows on the WisDOT website: https://wisconsindot.gov/Pages/safety/safety-eng/flash-yellow.aspx

Public voices concerns over next years COVID policies, procedures at June School Board meeting

The Cumberland School Board met in open session on June 28th in the Middle School commons.

The meeting started with district reports. Director of Education Jamie Shaffer announced that the assessment score data is being crunched and the reports are expected to be sent to parents sometime in August. She also reported that there are no new core curriculum classes this year, though there are new supplemental science curriculums for grades K-4 that can be included with the existing core science subjects.

Tami Bowman, Director of Special Education, reported that all IAPs had been completed for the year. She also was pleased to say that some of the Special Education students participated in Summer School classes. The District provided the same support that the students received during the regular classes (aides, transportation, etc.). The students loved the experience.

High School Principal Ritchie Narges read a report from Athletic Director Lorne Majewski. According to Lorne, Spring sports went well with only one game rescheduled because of COVID concerns at the other school. Several others were rescheduled due to rain, but there were no "cold weather issues" this year. Lorne also reported that we had nine athletes compete at the State Track competition this year. Narges remarked that in his time at CHS we have never sent such a large contingent to the State Track meet. "Congratulations to Coach O'Connell and the entire track staff for doing such a great job with the kids this year." Cumberland hosted the Division 3 Sectional Baseball Tournament on June 22nd at Islander Park. Thanks to all who helped pull off the event. Lots of compliments on the site, concessions, and tournament in general. Lorne's report finished with the following statement: "2020-21 has been a very unique and trying year for everyone - students, coaches, officials, staff, administration, board, etc. I want to thank everyone for their flexibility and willingness to adjust to allow our students to be able to participate in sports this past year."

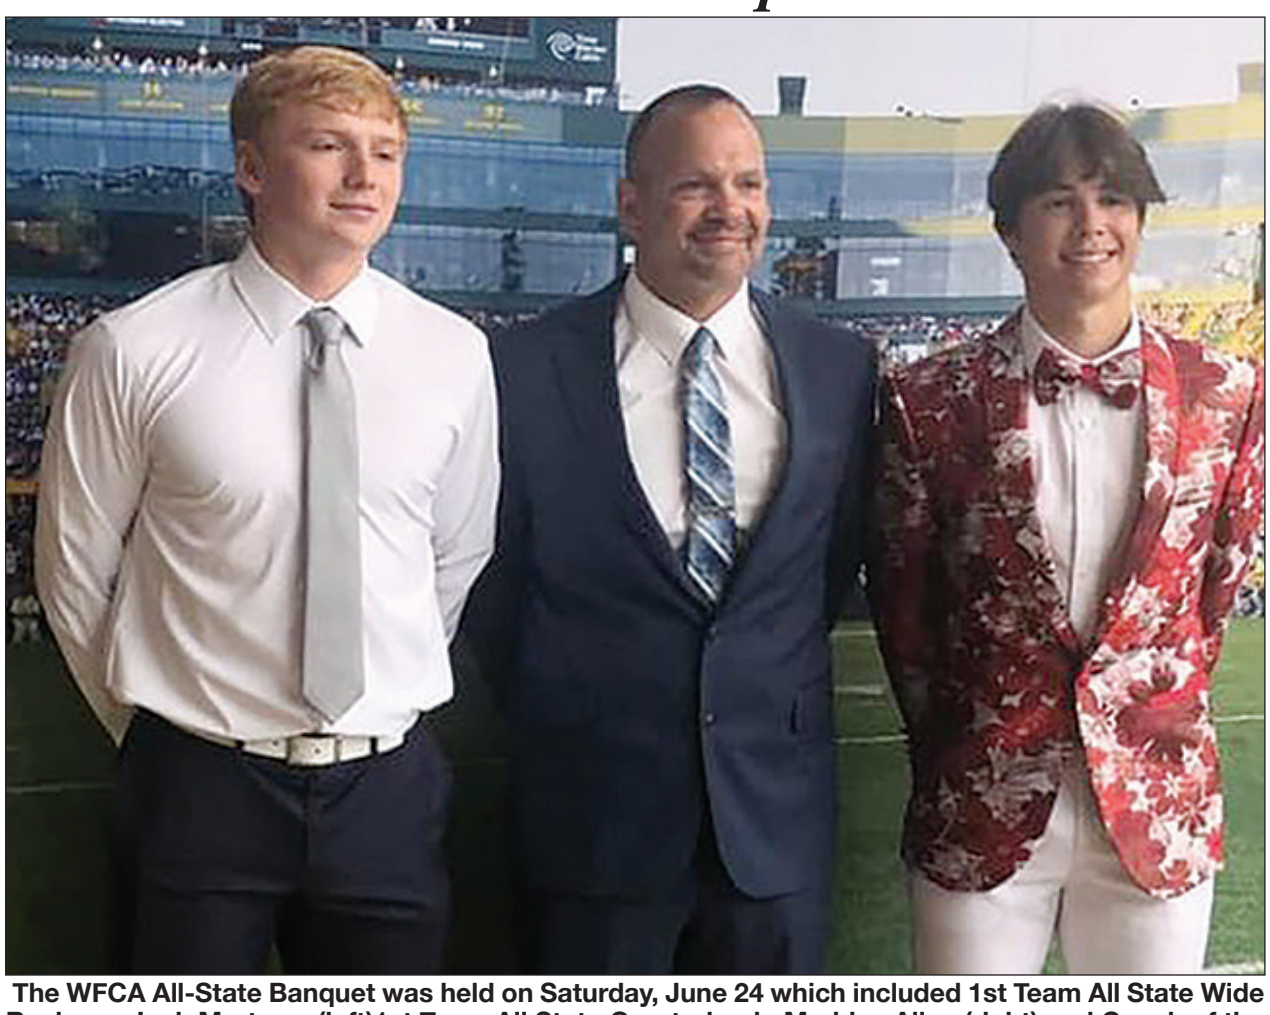

Moving on to the public comment period, Board President Dr. Eric Stone turned the floor over to Robert Ruppel for the "Ruppel Recap." Ruppel began his remarks by saying that he would, because of time constraints, skip his recap and go straight to his current concern, namely proposed Senate Bill 411. The bill prohibits race or sex stereotyping in Schools. Under the bill, school boards or operators of a charter school are prohibited from allowing a teacher to teach stereotyping in any course or to receive training that "advocates, acts upon, or promotes race or sex stereotyping." The bill also provides remedies for parents to bring claim against a district for a violation of the prohibitions. Ruppel commented that, should the Bill pass, he believes the "district would want this board to enforce" these prohibitions.

He then went on to discuss the announcement that COVID testing would be available to school district. He is opposed to the idea saying "I would not recommend turning this school into a healthcare facility." Ruppel then stated "I have not heard anything about critical race theory or transgender athletes competing in school sports." He said he feels that competition should be biologically based and not on what the athletes "identify" as. "What is this board's position on these two topics?" he asked. Ruppel began to introduce the topic of "Furies" in the district when his time ran out.

Next to address the board was Mike Furseth. "Since the beginning of this year, it has been clear that the school board believes they are 'doing the right thing'" he began. "You seem confident that your intentions are good. So just how confident are you in your own moral virtue? Are you confident enough to label those that oppose you as uncaring or evil and dismiss their ideas as ungrateful nonsense? Are you confident enough to censor free speech to keep people from speaking out? Are you confident enough in your own moral virtue to break your own ethics policy? One of the board ethics is "recognize that they (the board members) should endeavor to make policy decisions only after full discussion at publicly held board meetings." He then went on to ask "Are you confident enough in your own moral virtue that you would circumvent open meeting law, and still believe you were doing the right thing?" He then went on to read a definition of a "walking quorum." It refers to the concept of a governing body skirting open meeting laws by discussing matters as individuals in order to build a consensus to affect a vote outcome or engender policy. Summarizing the statement, Forseth stated "The school board members can meet privately one-on-one to discuss school business but as soon as those discussion start to work to build consensus, it is illegal. School board members cannot work to build consensus
