Take Action To Protect Our Waters From Aquatic Invasive Species This Winter

MADISON, Wis. – The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) asks anglers to help prevent the spread of aquatic invasive species while fishing this winter.

Even in harsh winter conditions, anglers can transport aquatic invasive species and fish diseases from one lake or river to another by emptying water from bait buckets and fish containers. When we add lake or river water to these containers, diseases such as viral hemorrhagic septicemia or critters like tiny spiny water fleas and zebra mussel larvae may be along for the ride.

That's why you should drain lake or river, and dispose of any worms in a closed container in the trash.

Minnows can only be purchased from a licensed Wisconsin bait dealer. No other fish can be held in the minnow container, and dead bait must be preserved in ways that do not require freezing or refrigeration.

Before leaving your fishing spots, remove any mud or plant material clinging to gear, including sleds used to haul supplies. Some invasive aquatic plants flourish under the ice, like curly-leaf pondweed and Eurasian watermilfoil. Invasive critters like the spiny water flea larvae hide in the mud, and zebra mussels often hitch rides on plants.

Before and after you drop your line, protect our fishing future by doing your part to prevent the spread of aquatic invasive species. Remember to:

Inspect all fishing equipment for attached aquatic plants, animals or mud.

Remove all attached plants or animals.

Drain all water from buckets and containers.

Never move live fish away from a waterbody (fish out of water = dead).

Dispose of unwanted bait in the trash.
